CANDIDATE PAID TO BLOCK ELY; 'FRIEND' OF YOUNGMAN IN PROBE

EMOTIONAL WALL STREET felt SO MUCH better yesterday. Men that had sold short, thinking loss were going down and willing to help them go, covered their sales hastily. More than four million shares were sold. "Plus" signs were scattered throughout the price list, scarcely a "minus" sign visible.

Wheat and cotton were cheerful also. The sad note was the statement, "There was nothing special to account for the rise."

Poor Gandhi, starting his "death fast," says he is "anxious as anybody to live" and will last as long as possible. He asks no sympathy. "After the first few days, desire for food will vanish and I shall begin to brood." He will take no nourishment except water, until he dies, or "until the Hindu conscience awakens."

Hindu national conscience or consciousness has been asleep for more than a thousand years. It will not awaken easily.

What the effect will be on Hindu public opinion if Gandhi decides at the last moment not to die of starvation, and what the effect on English rule in India if he does starve to death is uncertain. Perhaps the natives will see a miracle in it, if Gandhi lives on.

Governor La Follette of Wisconsin was beaten in the primaries Tuesday by Walter J. Kohler, as conservative as Governor La Follette is radical. It is the first time in exactly 40 years that any member of the La Follette family has lost an election.

The reason is not obscure. When men lack jobs, they vote to change the government.

That's what makes universal suffrage so valuable. It accepts only RESULTS, not ARGUMENTS.

In New Jersey Miss Ruth Ann, no need to mention her last name, rich young woman of Philadelphia, had her choice of going to jail or marrying on the spot the man with whom she had been living.

She told the judge she "abhorred marriage" because she had seen so many "rotten" marriages. But she preferred marriage to jail and she married the gentleman.

When she grows older Miss Ruth Ann will know that marriage is not as bad as she thinks it is now.

Schopenhauer, in his "Studies in Pessimism," says marriage is a conspiracy in which all women have united "to compel every man to support some one woman for life." That's a poor description. Marriage is a training school in which women for many centuries have been trying to educate men to live decently. They haven't succeeded, but they will succeed in time.

The Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey is offered a 40-year monopoly of petroleum sales in Cuba if the company will pay off now the Cuban republic's foreign and internal debts of two hundred million dollars.

The head of Standard of New Jersey, Mr. Teagle, is one who does not move hastily. Such a monopoly, if it would "stand up," might be worth two hundred millions several times over. But how many things can happen in 40 years. A revolution might smash the monopoly, and also make it a little difficult for anybody in Cuba to buy or use gasoline. And $200,000,000 cash in these times is a substantial sum, even for S. O. of N. J.

Three Methodist bodies have merged in one of the largest British Protestant churches. Ten thousand rejoiced in Albert Hall. King George sent congratulations through his son, the Duke of York, seeing in the "merger" a "token of divine guidance and blessing and ultimate unity of Christian people, always near my heart."

That unity will come, but not immediately, and Christianity may have changed its beliefs by the time it comes, its attitude toward hell, Jonah and his whale, and a God of vengeance.

Harvey D. Gibson, head of the Manufacturers' Trust Co., put aside his cares, consents to become chairman of the emergency unemployment relief committee in New York once more. Last winter Mr. Gibson raised about twenty million dollars.

It will not be so easy a second time. Plenty of relief will be needed if conditions continue, and generous giving is a thing of which human beings tire quickly.

Ex-Rector Admits on Stand in Battle With Divorced Wife That Deals Involved Million

Rev. John J. Callan, former rector of St. Andrews' Episcopal Church, Wellesley, took the witness stand in Suffolk Superior Court today in an effort to reclaim half-interest in a $525,000 Wellesley estate formerly owned jointly by him and his wife, Mrs. Mary Hemenway Callan, now divorced, a niece of Bishop William Lawrence.

The tortuous probe shows that in connection with the transfer of the property to her,

WARY OF "TRICK"

"On April 10, 1930," Rev. Mr. Callan testified, "I told my wife that I had given her the last securities that I intended giving her. I said to her, 'You've got most of the securities; you've got the real estate, but there will be no dammed Yankee trick played on me over this trust fund. The property we agreed would go into a trust fund is going into one.'

"I told her I would give her no more securities until the trust fund was properly executed."

In testifying relative to a loan of $66,000 made to him by his wealthy father-in-law, Augustus Hemenway, Sr., the former clergyman said:

OWED BROKERS $525,000

"Mr. Hemenway said that $140,000, the amount of the loan I asked for, was a lot of money and that he could not raise 140 cents. He promised to see what he could do.

"Before I asked for the loan the joint account of my wife, my own two daughters and myself owed the brokers $525,000, but the value of the securities was in excess of $800,000. At the peak of the market they were valued at more than one million dollars.

"At the time I made the loan I went to the office of John Richardson (Republican National committeeman with my wife and Augustus Hemenway, Jr. The loan was made there. I agreed with Augustus Hemen-

FIND BODY OF WOMAN ON MARSH

Police Believe That Victim in the Gloucester Mystery May Have Been Attacked, Slain

Gloucester, Sept. 22—Believed to have been attacked and slain, the body of a woman, about 35 years old, was found today on Morris' Marsh in West Gloucester.

Although the body was near the high water line, it was established that it was not washed up by the sea.

Further mystery was added when her shoes and handbag could not be found, although a woman's hat and a bungalow apron lay nearby, and a bottle of iodine, full but with the label missing, was picked up in the vicinity.

MIGHT BE FROM BOSTON

Police said the woman was not from Gloucester but that they thought it possible she may have come from Greater Boston.

The body, clad only in a black velvet dress of good quality, a pair of flesh-colored stockings, turned partly down, and a brassiere, had been exposed to the weather about a week, according to Medical Examiner Ira B. Hull.

Because of the condition of the body, Medical Examiner Hull said he could not determine immediately the manner in which the woman met her death, but said he would search for a possible bullet in the remains.

BODY ON MARSH

Floyd Morris, 22, of 115 Concord st., West Gloucester, found the body on the marsh, in the rear of the James Russell Hawks estate and about 400 feet in from a well-traveled road.

One ring, on the little finger of the right hand, had been a signet ring but whatever initials may have been on it were worn off. Inside the band police found the initials "T. B."

The other ring, on the left ring finger, was of silver filigree mounted with a stone which appeared to be a diamond.

SHOES MISSING

The woman was about five feet four inches tall, weighed 145 pounds and had dark brown hair. In the upper jaw was a front bridge with five teeth and from the lower jaw two molars were missing.

Because of the presence of the lung black coal 50 feet from the body police believe that the woman may have been walking at night or riding in an automobile when she met her death.

DOHERTY GOT $100 MONTH TO RUN, HE ADMITS

Patrick H. Doherty of Avon, candidate for Governor of the Prohibition Repeal Party, today admitted before the Ballot Law Commission that he was given an automobile and paid $200 for entering the race by a "lifelong friend," whose name he would not reveal, and by Samuel Rushton of Attleboro.

Doherty said also he was to receive $100 a month as a salary for running for governor.

Doherty's revelations came when he was questioned by Atty. James F. Sullivan, representing Representative Higgins of Boston, who charged that signatures to Doherty's nomination papers had been obtained either by fraud or were forgeries.

GOT $15 FOR NAMES

A second startling declaration was made by William Grant Stowers, a Norwood taxi driver, who testified he was paid $15 for procuring signatures among his friends without informing them of the purpose, and that he was told by Rushton that he need not fear getting into trouble as "William S. Youngman, Republican candidate for governor, was the particular friend and would go through for him 100 per cent."

Up to the time Doherty was called to the stand, four witnesses denied they signed Doherty's papers. They said they believed the papers were only a petition for the repeal of prohibition.

"I am retired on a pension. Last summer, a lifelong friend of mine and Samuel Rushton of Attleboro approached me, and asked me to accept the nomination for Governor for the Prohi-

THOUSANDS HIT FERRY TIEUP

Thousands of Narrow Gauge passengers were held up today when the loading platform on the Boston side of the ferry became disabled and tied up the service from East Boston.

Trains from Lynn, Revere Beachmont and other points unloaded at the East Boston ferry slips but found passengers could not be taken to Boston.

Passengers were entrained and taken to the Orient Heights station to continue their journey by street car and East Boston tunnel.

The result was a tre endous influx of passengers taxing the Gladstone st. car service.

Elevated officials ordered extra cars, taxi companies did a land office business and many private automobiles became temporary jitney vehicles.

Later the ferryboat Dartmouth was used as a platform at the Boston terminus. The other ferryboats then landed passengers.

An East Boston woman, mother of three daughters and one son, collapsed in front of the East Boston police station today, a victim of hunger.

The woman, Mrs. Rafael Falcuchi, 66, of Emmett pl., East Boston, told police a story that caused them to start an investigation of the womans son.

Police say she told them her son was drawing welfare aid in spite of ownership of a house. The three daughters, all married, said herself were also welfare recipients, she said.

She went to the home of one of her daughters today to ask for food, her weekly welfare sum of $5 having petered out, and was not admitted. She then walked from Jeffries Point to Chelsea st., and collapsed in sight of the station.

Police brought food for the woman after they had applied restoratives. She later was taken home.

ROOSEVELT CARRIES FIGHT TO HOOVER'S HOME

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Enroute to San Francisco on the Roosevelt Special, Sept. 22 (INS)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt invaded the home state of President Hoover today with the most vigorous challenge that he has yet flung down to his Republican opponent.

The Roosevelt challenge was on the power issue. For the first time on his western tour, the Democratic nominee took off his political gloves at Portland last night and hit hard at Mr. Hoover and his policies.

HOOVER HIS TARGET

The Democratic nominee assailed President Hoover in more caustic terms than at any time since the campaign began. He sought to show by the record that Hoover was the friend and advocate of the power interests, and asserted:

"Never shall the federal government part with or sacrifice its sovereignty and control over its power resources while I am President of the United States."

He asserted that "the crash of the Insull empire has given excellent point to the truth of what I have been arguing for a long time," and in his utilization of the Insull illustration he said he did so "not only to show the vast extent of operations of some of these great companies, but the unsound conditions created by the policies of the non-interference which the President of the United States still so valiantly maintains."

OUTLINES PROGRAM

The Insull failure, Roosevelt asserted, "has opened our eyes," and he demanded these specific reforms:

"I seek to protect both the consumer and investor. To that end I propose and advocate the following remedies on the part of the government for the regulation and control of public utilities engaged in the power business and companies and corporations relating thereto:

1—Full publicity as to all capital issues of stocks, bonds, and other securities; liabilities and indebtedness, capital investment; and frequent information as to gross and net earnings.

2—Publicity on stock ownership of stocks and bonds and other securities, including the stock and other interest of all officers and directors.

3—Publicity with respect to all inter-company contracts and service and interchange of power.

4—Regulation and control of holding companies by federal power commission and the same publicity with regard to such holding companies as provided for the operating companies.

5—Co-operation of the federal power commission with public utilities commissions of the several states, obtaining information and data pertaining to the regulation and control of such public utilities.

6—Regulation and control of the issue of stocks and bonds and other securities on the principle of prudent investment only.

7—Abolishing by law the reproduction cost theory for rate making and establishing in place of it the actual money, prudent-investment principle as the basis for rate making.

8—Legislation making it a crime to publish or circulate false or deceptive matter relating to public utilities.

RAPS HOOVER'S SILENCE

Roosevelt got a great hand when he asserted:

"President Hoover has been silent on the non-enforcement of the federal water power act. He has been evasive on valuation methods and high rates and is apparently satisfied with the present type of 48 different varieties of state regulation.

"He has done nothing to enforce the regulatory sections of the federal water power act. He has done nothing to block the financial observations included in the great post-war power developments as planned by its promoters.

"While President Hoover now urges federal control, no administration bill has been introduced in Congress in the past four years.

"My distinguished opponent is against giving the federal government in any case the right to operate their own power business. I favor giving the people this right where and when it is essential to protect them from inefficient service or exorbitant charges.

"To the people of this country I have but one answer on this subject.

"Judge me by the enemies I have made."

N. Y. Betting Odds Favor Roosevelt

New York, Sept. 22—The 7 to 5 presidential betting odds on Herbert Hoover have dwindled to even money or less since Maine's political somersault into the Democratic column.

Betting commissioners said today that bets on the presidential outcome are very scarce, but that odds of 6 to 5 are being posted that Governor Roosevelt will carry New York State, and odds of 2 to 1 that he will carry Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

Blocking the Way

If all the power spent today
On party politics,
If all the forces thrown away
On cheap campaigning tricks
Were harnessed up to shop and plow
And factory and mill,
Ten million would be working now
And breadlines would be nil.

If all the gales of ballyhoo
Were put to honest toil
The industries would thrive anew
Upon this troublous soil.
But ballyhoo and politics
Are waxing strong today,
And with their ancient party tricks
They simply block the way.

PRIZE WINNERS HEARD IN DAVIS LOTTERY TRIAL

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

New York, Sept. 22 (INS)—Some of the "lucky number" prize winners of the Moose charity balls, alleged by the government to have been lotteries, were heard on the witness stand today at the trial of U. S. Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania, charged with violation of the national lottery laws.

Mrs. Mary Mychlin of Astoria, N. Y., testified for the government that she had bought two 50-cent tickets for the 1931 ball for her two-year-old twin daughters and one of them won $5000.

$150,000 IN PRIZES

She said that when she bought the ticket it had printed on it that $150,000 in prizes would be distributed, with $50,000 for first prize.

Mrs. Mychlin testified she didn't go to the charity ball.

Mrs. Catherine Hafner of New York testified she won $200 on one of the five tickets bought and got a check for it from the New York office of the Moose.

"Were you told you had a chance to win a prize" U. S. Atty. Louis M. Treadwell asked.

Defense Counsel Charles H. Tuttle objected. Judge Frank J. Coleman sustained the objection.

The 1931 Moose convention in Atlantic City was informed of the financial success of the ball, it was brought out at today's session of the trial when a report read at the convention was admitted in evidence.

The Government introduced this evidence to disprove the defendant's claim that he did not know anything of the 1930 and 1931 affairs which are alleged to have been lotteries.

Two feminine bookkeepers, employed by Marcus and Mayer, Philadelphia printers, were next called.

This firm printed the tickets for the 1931 Moose charity ball.

Bess Elzar and Gertrude Sobel, the bookkeepers, identified accounts kept for the propagation department of the Moose, which handled the promotion of the charity balls.

TICKET PRINTERS HEARD

Reed said he obtained the order from Bernard C. McGuire, promoter and real estate operator, of Aurora, Ill. McGuire was hired by the propagation department for work on the charity ball.

Reed said his company printed 600,684 books each with 12 tickets and others with 40 each. Tickets sold at 50 cents apiece. There were 28,236,480 printed, which if all sold would have brought in $13,-104,230.

Witness said he had received other printing jobs from McGuire.

Rose Hobart to Wed Grosvenor Next Month

Los Angeles, Sept. 22—Rose Hobart, stage and screen star, will marry William M. Grosvenor, Jr., son of the socially prominent New York scientist, sometime next month.

Their romance, which has been kept a secret for the past four months, came to light yesterday when the actress flourished an engagement ring given her by Grosvenor.

Miss Hobart received her screen opportunity three years ago when she was chosen from the New York stage to replace Janet Gaynor as the leading lady in "Lilliom." Since then she has had several prominent parts in pictures.

Admiral Pringle Will Recover Without Knife

Admiral Pringle

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 22—Vice-Admiral Joel R. P. Pringle, commander of the battle force, U. S. fleet, will not have to undergo an operation, it was announced by Capt. L. W. Johnson of the U. S. Navy Medical Corps.

His condition has improved to such a degree that he will recover through slow convalescence and medical treatment without the aid of a surgeon's knife.

Mrs. Borah Suffering from Parrot Fever

Mrs. Borah

Boise, Idaho, Sept. 22—Mrs. William E. Borah, wife of the Idaho senator, is a victim of parrot-fever, it was revealed by Dr. Ralph Falk.

Dr. Falk said he believed Mrs. Borah to be in no danger. The disease was discovered some time ago when tests were made, but the result of the test was kept secret according to the physician.

The admission was made after a chance remark by Senator Borah that Mrs. Borah's pet California parakeet had died last week.

The senator's wife will recover in a very short time, Dr. Falk said.

LEATHER FIRM GETS BIG ORDER

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—J. F. Farnum, president of the Jarman Shoe Company of Nashville, Tenn., announced here today that he had placed an order with the Ohio Leather Company of Gerard, O., for 1,000,000 feet of calf skin, which will require the pelts of 83,000 calves to fill.

"Our July business was 38.8 per cent better than June, and August was 41.1 per cent better than July," Jarman said. "With these figures adjusted for seasonal variations, August showed an improvement of 93.9 per cent over June."

Norman's Debt Talks Admitted in London

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, Sept. 22 (INS)—One of his own colleagues today virtually confirmed the report, generally believed here despite official denials, that Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, discussed war debt revision with representatives of the Hoover administration on his recent mysterious visit to the United States.

Thomas Fisher, one of the proprietors of the Bank of England, declared at the semi-annual meeting of the board today:

"We are glad that Mr. Norman has safely returned from America where he has sown the seed that in the future will bear fruit not only for this country but for the whole world."

Fisher's statement was made in seconding the customary resolution thanking the board for its conduct of the bank's affairs in the past six months. In his reply, Norman made no reference at all to his trip to the United States which he made under an assumed name.

Nevertheless, London financial circles accepted this cryptic reference to the Norman trip as clinching the reports circulated in America.

"Fisher has let the cat out of the bag," was one comment.

There had been rumors that Norman would present his resignation at today's meeting, but nothing of that nature developed, it was stated at the bank.

FRANCE BLOCKS CUT IN ARMS

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Geneva, Sept. 22 (INS)—France today advanced a proposal that throws a new obstacle in the way of world disarmament when the steering committee of the Geneva disarmament conference resumed its sessions.

Joseph Paul-Boncour, war minister and head of the French delegation since the unexpected death of Premier Herriot, for Paris last night, declared arms cuts were feasible only on condition that League commissions be permitted to visit the various countries and inspect armaments, munition factories, etc., on the spot.

The French proposal, undoubtedly, is a counter-move to the British plan for a one-third reduction in armaments, which was presented to the conference by Arthur Henderson, British foreign minister, last July.

bition Repeal party. As I had nothing to do, I agreed as a favor to my friend.

PAID FOR RUNNING

"I was presented an automobile, and $100 and to receive a salary of $100 a month during the campaign.

"Then, I was taken on a trip." (Doherty refused to tell where.) "I was told that the trip would save me from being bothered during the campaign. At the time I signed my nomination papers, I had no expectations of being elected and I now have no desire to become governor.

"After the first trip, a second trip was suggested. But I refused to go, as I didn't think my wife would like it.

FEARED FOR LIFE

"Later on I was taken to a sub cellar of a Boston garage, paid another $100, and told to keep quiet. When another trip was suggested, I refused, fearing I would be put on the spot."

Doherty then caused another surprise by telling Commissioner Beckford that Edward C. Berrenger, Avon attorney, who was supposed to be there representing him, had never been retained by him and that as far as he knew, was not his attorney.

Berrenger said he had been retained by phone by a man who said he was Doherty. After Doherty denied he had employed him, Berrenger said he did not care to act any further in Doherty's behalf.

"FRIEND OF YOUNGMAN"

"I met Rushton while waiting for a fare one day in Norwood. Rushton asked me if I'd care to make a little money getting signatures and said he would pay me $15.

"I told him I did not want to get into any trouble, and Rushton said:

"'Don't worry about getting into trouble. Billy Youngman is a lifelong friend of mine. He'll go through for me 100 per cent.'

"Rushton paid me in advance, and I went among my friends and most of them signed because I told them I was getting $15 for filling the papers with names.

"Rushton also warned me not to mention his name, and told me if I were asked who gave me the papers, to think up the name of someone in Hyde Park.

PUT ON YOUNGMAN RALLY

A week ago, Rushton staged a big Youngman rally at Attleboro which was attended by more than 7000 persons. Lieut.-Gov. Youngman was sought today to learn of his connections with Rushton, but could not be located.

Berenger asked permission to cross-examine Stowers, but since he has died case, he was refused.

Doherty had more than 2000 signatures on his papers. One thousand are necessary for certification. But it is expected that Sullivan will ask the commission for a ruling without summoning any more witnesses.

CHARGES FORGERY

Atty. Sullivan said he had more than 500 witnesses who would either deny they signed Doherty's papers or that they did so believing the papers to be simply a petition asking for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Thomas J. Cannon, Albion st., Lawrence, the first witness, admitted he signed a paper which did not contain Doherty's name, and that he believed it was to register his opposition to prohibition.

Richard A. McKallagat, Jackson st., Lawrence, also testified he signed a paper believing it to be for prohibition repeal and that he did not know Doherty, nor was he told Doherty was running for governor.

Raymond Rancourt of West st., Lawrence, denied he had signed any papers and said the signature on Doherty's nomination papers was not his.

Rushton Says Doherty Charges Are "Silly"

"The whole thing is silly. I never heard of Doherty."

this was the answer of Samuel Rushton, Attleboro resident, to charges made by Patrick J. Doherty that Rushton was one of the men who paid him to run for governor on the Prohibition Repeal party ticket.

Rushton is known in Attleboro as a prominent sportsman and breeder of fine horses, many of which he has exhibited at Brockton fairs.

He is a bachelor and lives alone in a cottage in North Attleboro near the Plainville line. He has never been known to take any part in state politics, although he has shown interest in local affairs.

He was formerly engaged in the jewelry business in Attleboro, but retired several years ago.

way, Sr., that I would put the sum of $75,000 in trust for the benefit of my wife, our three children, my two children by a former marriage and myself. I also agreed to liquidate all my stock holdings within a year.

GAVE WIFE $152,262

"Then came the crash in the market. I turned the estate in Wellesley over to my wife on the supposition that the trust would be made later. Less than a month I paid back the $66,000 I borrowed from Mr. Hemenway, Sr.

"From the time I made the loan of $66,000 up to April 16, 1930, I turned over to my wife securities valued at $152,262.

"My wife kept putting off making the trust agreement. I finally had it drawn up and put my signature to it and my wife placed her signature on it, too, but her father didn't, although his signature was necessary. She kept putting me off by saying that her father was infirm and couldn't be bothered. I finally told her I would give her no more securities until the trust agreement was executed."

REFUSES TO ANSWER

Before the ex-pastor testified, his divorced wife was on the stand and explained how she took the management of her financial affairs away from her husband and turned them over to Richardson.

It appeared that Richardson withdrew Mrs. Callan's securities from a Wellesley safety deposit box in 1930. This box was held jointly by the Callans. On objection of counsel she declined to say whether she refused to return the securities to Callan.

EXIT SUMMER, HELLO FALL!

You can kiss good-bye today to the summer of 1932, for autumn arrives at 2:16 a. m. tomorrow, according to G. A. Loveland, weather forecaster.

We've had an average summer, Loveland declared today, and that's in spite of anything you may have thought when you were sweltering or were chilled or thought it was raining too much or not enough.

Closely following the advent of autumn, daylight saving ends at 2 a. m. Sunday, when you will put your clock back an hour—or if you're funny that way, you'll set it ahead 11 hours, which is much less annoying to the timepiece.

Troopers Sent to Shoe Strike Area

Auburn, Me., Sept. 22 (AP)—Although a platoon of ten State highway police arrived here today to guard against violence in the strike of 3000 Auburn shoe workers, peace prevailed at the factories and a few workers returned to work. The Cushman-Hollis Company yesterday authorized foremen to hire back such help as was needed "without discrimination."

had nothing to do with it, might put up some signs saying, "Please don't tease the bear." Too much teasing might be serious, for Russia has a big army on land and in the air.

Japan is worried because De Valera, President of the Irish Free State, will preside over the League of Nations council, presently, when the Manchurian question is discussed. Japan does not like that, believing that De Valera may carry as far as Manchuria his idea that each nation should control itself and not be controlled by an emperor, at a distance.

There are in the world about thirty million radio sets, more than half in this country. More than one-half the world's automobiles are in this country, more than half the vacuum cleaners, electric washing machines, improved farming implements, electric lights, etc.

The marvel is that we manage to have so much while spending on criminal rackets, as G. L. Hofstetter, of Chicago, proves more money than it cost to run the war, well upon ten thousand million dollars every year. We can't keep that up, forever.

LETTER CHARGING CORRUPTION HAS POLICE BY THE EARS

QUESTIONNAIRE ON CRIME IS SENT OUT

Captains of All Divisions Required to Answer Accusations Contained in Unsigned Note

The Boston police department was literally spinning on its ear today as a result of an anonymous letter written by an indignant citizen, who charged members of the department with selling liquor, hobnobbing with the underworld, interfering with the work of prohibition agents and winking at murders and other crimes in general.

Coming almost simultaneously with the gang shooting in South Boston, the letter was given added significance.

Every one in the department was curious today to get a hint at the author. The letter was typewritten. It was undated and unsigned. It was phrased in such a way as to indicate that the writer was not only a person of intelligence, but, perhaps, well-posted as to conditions in certain sections.

It is thought to have been mailed from the East Bay. It was considered of sufficient importance by Commissioner Hultman, to whom it was addressed, that he turned it over Supt. Crowley with orders to investigate.

SUBMIT QUESTIONNAIRE.

Supt. Crowley said today he thought the best way to investigate the charges contained in the letter was to submit them in the form of a questionnaire to the police captains who have been ordered to submit their reports not later than Saturday.

Supt. Crowley admitted that the seven queries in the questionnaire were drafted from the letter and were practically the same phraseology.

The popular opinion in the department was that the reports from the captains would be mighty lean. It was pointed out that any admissions would incriminate not only men in the ranks who might be suspected, but the captain who reported any infractions enumerated in the questionnaire.

The letter asserted that Boston policemen have been selling liquor, accepting graft to allow drinking at hotel parties, and allowing paid killers to shoot down men in cold blood.

ECHO OF GARRETT CASE

Hultman and Crowley said they intended to make a thorough checkup on the anonymous charges, to see if there is any basis to them. They admitted that they do not believe there is any truth in them.

Other police officials, however, saw a reflection from the Garrett hearing in the investigation. At that hearing former Commissioner Herbert A. Wilson was criticized for failure to investigate anonymous charges.

Surgery Case Probe Pushed in Lawrence

Lawrence, Sept. 22—Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg today continued to press the investigation into the death of Miss Eleanor M. Carter, 21-year-old secretary, of Merrimac, who died Friday following an illegal surgery case. State Detective Richard Griffin was in Merrimac and Danvers checking several clues, one a mysterious phone call to the girl's parents.

'My Cry Will Arise to the Throne of the Almighty'—Gandhi, the Man of India, on Hunger Strike, Speaks

THOUSANDS FLOCK TO HEAR HIS WISDOM AND GUIDANCE

WHEN HE MADE HIS TALKIE DEBUT

The eyes of the whole world are turned to India today, where Mahatma Gandhi, pictured above in three typical scenes, has completed two full days of his "hunger unto death." He sits quietly in his cell in the Yeravda jail in Poona, conserving his strength for the self-imposed martyrdom he is resolved to undergo for the freedom of his race. His wife has been released from jail so that she may be with him during his hunger strike. The Mahatma, idol of the millions of India's "untouchables," began his fast in protest against the British electoral plan for granting the "untouchables" separate representation for twenty years, a plan which Gandhi contends will mean disaster to his native land. Gandhi is in daily receipt of countless messages of cheer and courage from his admirers, and it is estimated that at least 100,000 of his adherents endured a 24-hour sympathy fast when the Mahatma began his starvation. Thousands of women in the Bombay district today paraded bearing banners calling on Britain to give in, so the Mahatma might live.

WIFE TURNS ON BEATEN HUBBY

A furious fight which sent James Pierce of Brainard rd., Allston, to the hospital with one eye destroyed, was aired in municipal court today, with Pierce's wife, Emma, a beauty parlor proprietor, taking sides with the other complainant.

Mrs. Pierce appeared as a witness for Christopher Murphy, Bowdoin st., West End, charged with assault and battery on Pierce.

Through his lawyer, Michael Carchia, Murphy asked for a complaint making the same charge against Pierce. Both matters were put over to a later date, but Judge Murray questioned Murphy and the woman.

"I had just returned with Mr. Murphy from Holden to an apartment on North Russell st., when my husband came there and asked for his clothes," she said. "It was after midnight and I told him to come back at a reasonable hour. He struck me on the shoulder and I fell downstairs."

Murphy said he was in the apartment and went to Mrs. Pierce's assistance. He said he saw a bright object flash in the air, and he was knocked down and kicked, but he insisted he did not wound Pierce.

Man With Burglar's Tools Held in $10,000

Because a neighbor became suspicious and told police, Garrett Roy Durant, 39, of Massachusetts ave., South End, was held in $10,000 for the grand jury today in municipal court. Police said they found a gun and various burglar tools in Durant's room after a neighbor had telephoned Durant was carrying a gun.

Gandhi's Wife Freed to Care for Him During Fast

By S. De ANDRADE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Bombay, Sept. 22 (INS)—The great body of Hindu women in India rallied to save the life of Mahatma Gandhi today as the aged champion of the "untouchables" entered the third day of his "fast unto death" in their behalf.

TRIES TO BE CHEERFUL

A great demonstration in Bombay brought immediate result as the government granted one of their pleas, Gandhi's wife, who was imprisoned in Gujerat for civil disobedience several months ago, was removed to the Yeravda jail in Poona, where she could aid and comfort her weakening husband.

Gandhi's condition was quickly becoming serious, although he tried to appear cheerful to visitors, and this fact spurred negotiators to hurry their efforts to reach an agreement on an electoral arrangement for the "untouchables," the only apparent way to induce Gandhi to end his fast.

Representatives of both the high caste Hindus and the depressed "Untouchables" conferred with Gandhi, presenting their respective plans and trying to hit upon a compromise.

Gandhi began the fast in protest against the British electoral plan providing separate representation for the "untouchables," holding this communal system would mean disaster for India.

100,000 SYMPATHIZERS

It is estimated more than 100,000 sympathizers with Gandhi's cause fasted with him throughout the first day of his self-inflicted gradual torture, but that the number fell off considerably on the second day.

Determined efforts have been made to throw the Hindu temples open to the "untouchables" and Orthodox Hindu priests have combined to fight this move.

Women in Bombay demonstrated in the streets, displaying placards which said:

Hearing of this, Gandhi sent this message to the women of Bombay:

"The thought of having many sisters with me in this travail sustains me."

Malaviya Datar, high Hindu leader, issued a statement today which said that Gandhi was becoming exhausted by his fast and urged the people to appeal to Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald to bring the communal matter to a settlement.

Gandhi spent part of the morning spinning at the jail where visitors were urged to remain away.

A government announcement said he might retain his own medical attendant if he wished.

100 Hindus Fast in Sympathy

EDWARD PAYSON DEAD AT 84

Edward S. Payson, for years identified with the Boston piano industry, died in his Lexington home today at the age of 84.

Since his retirement several years ago, Payson lived in Marrett rd., Lexington. Mrs. Payson, the former Caroline Morrill of Boston, survives.

Payson was born in Groton in 1842, son of the Rev. Albert Lemuel Payson. He was educated in Salem and worked in a bank there. He entered the piano business when he was about 20.

Requests for R. F. C. Loans Show Drop

Washington, Sept. 22 (AP)—The number of applications for bank, railroad and insurance company loans from the Reconstruction Corporation has dropped off in the last month.

TATTOOED MAN MURDER VICTIM

An official report of murder was made today in the death of a tattooed man, whose body was found near the state highway in Hooksett, N. H. New Hampshire authorities asked Boston police to help establish the victim's identity.

Chloroform caused the death according to a report made today.

There are indications the victim was transported to Hooksett between Manchester and Concord, by auto. The body was found a week ago in Lakin's pond.

The tattooing is on the right forearm and depicts a girl in the folds of the British Union Jack.

Wired to the body was a steel plate believed to be part of an auto crankcase.

The victim was five feet eight inches, 45 to 50, with dark hair streaked with gray. He wore a blue serge suit. Death occurred about 17 days ago.

2 SHIPS FEARED LOST IN GALE

Halifax, N. S., Sept. 22 (AP)—Fears for the safety of two schooners, believed unreported since recent heavy gales, were felt in Nova Scotia today.

Discovery near Drum Head, Guysboro county, of a yellow-painted side and stern of a dory bearing the name L. A. Dunton had same name. However, it was learned the L. A. Dunton was safe at Gloucester.

At North Sidney, N. S., fears were felt for the Newfoundland schooner Maud Thornhill, and the small schooner Bebbe, with Capt. Bart Dunphy and a crew of three. The Maud Thornhill, Capt. Kearley, has been unreported since leaving Port Aux Basques, N. F., a week ago, and the Bebbe has been missing since it was blown off the coast by last Saturday's gale.

CANDIDATE SAYS HE IS PAID CASH TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

HOPKINS WARNS OF IDEALIZING MEDIOCRITY

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 22—Civilization today is threatened by a perverted sense of democracy which idealizes mediocrity and is antagonistic to leaders above the mental average, Ernest Martin Hopkins, president of Dartmouth College, told students at the 164th annual convocation in the Webster House here today.

"Public confidence," he said, "is given most largely to those, not who are capable of raising the level upon which we live, but to those who stoop to the average and pander to the common."

Pres. Hopkins spoke on the general theme of education, what its aims ought to be and what results should be expected from it. He appealed for strong men in these trying times, men who are strong morally and mentally, as well as physically.

"ARISTOCRACY OF BRAINS"

A recognition of an aristocracy of intellect, a repetition of his views first voiced ten years ago, was the most democratic thing conceivable, President Hopskins said, "free from the artificial prestige of birth, the mere affluence of wealth or fortuitous possession of instruments of force."

In pointing out some of the dangers confronting present day civilization, President Hopkins said:

"Public confidence and popular applause are given most largely, not to those who are capable of rising above the level upon which we live and think, but to those who stoop to the average and pander to the common."

PROHIBITION FAILURE

Speaking of the Eighteenth Amendment, President Hopkins says it has failed completely in its purpose, mainly because those who insist upon it are the very ones who fail to uphold and vindicate it.

The electoral college, he referred to as "a rubber stamp of popular will instead of a responsible group delegated to take independent action."

Pres. Hopkins expressed a fear that payment of the bonus at this time would be the straw that would break the back of civilization and said the sponsors of such payment were either selfish or failed to understand the gravity of the present crisis.

Roosevelt to Be Guest at Movie Charity Spectacle

Los Angeles, Sept. 22 (INS)—World-famous stars of filmdom, floats of extreme beauty, light effects declared as gorgeous as an aurora borealis, polo and equestrianism, comedy touches and the playing of massed bands.

Such is the summary given today for the motion picture electrical parade and sport pageant Saturday night in Olympic Stadium.

With the show starting promptly at 7 p. m., efforts are being made to confine it to a little more than three hous. However, it was intimated, the program probably will run until midnight.

Never before has such a turnout of motion picture stars been planned as for this night of nights, Jack L. Warner, director general, declared.

Floats are being rushed to completion in a Hollywood studio.

Among other innovations, Frank N. Murphy, chief electrical engineer, plans to "fan" brilliantly-hued shafts of light from the peristyle, painting the sky in rainbow hues.

Another electrical triumph will be the "illuminated orange grove," a spectacular phantasy, while Shriners will do a "mounted drill," using illuminated hobby horses for comedy purposes.

The screen's most attractive girls, clad fantastically or in drapes, will serve as "living decorations" on each float.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be guest of honor, with Gov. Rolph also invited. Mayor Porter has been asked to welcome the guests of state.

Given for charity with Motion Picture Relief fund and Marion Davies foundation as beneficiaries, the event has received wholehearted co-operation.

SUSPECT HELD IN BOMBING

Chicago, Sept. 22—At the suggestion of Judge John P. McGoorty, whose home was the target of a bomb which critically injured two young persons, police arrested Alexander St. John, Negro, who once appeared before the Judge in a criminal case.

Police said that St. John's name was given to them by the Judge as a likely suspect because of threats the man allegedly uttered against the jurist.

St. John was arrested at his home, only a few blocks from Judge McGoorty's house in Kenwood, and taken to the state's attorney's office for questioning. St. John was before the judge, the latter said, in a case involving a young girl, his niece, and he was ordered to pay her $1500.

After Judge McGoorty's verdict, the jurist said, St. John voiced threats against him and later repeated the threats to social service workers.

KOHLER BEATS LA FOLLETTE BY 92,534

Milwaukee, Sept. 22 (AP)—Wisconsin's major political offices, barring an unusual political upset, appeared destined today to rest in the hands of a young editor and a middle-aged manufacturer.

The editor, John B. Chapple, Ashland, seemed destined to enter the United States Senate and former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, head of a manufacturing firm, to return to the governorship. Both are conservative Republicans.

The electorate gave them decisive victories over Senator John J. Blaine and Gov. Philip La Follette, Progressive Republican incumbents, in Tuesday's primaries.

With only a few precincts missing, Kohler had 404,935 votes to 312,401 for La Follette, a plurality of 92,534. Chapple led Blaine by 17,932 votes, polling 334,257 to his opponent's 316,325, fewer persons having voted for senator than for governor by about 67,000.

Device Makes Aim of Machine Gun More Deadly

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—A Marine Corps officer's invention, to make the aim of the fast firing machine gun even more deadly, was announced today.

The device, invented by Lieut. Richard M. Cutts, Jr., is a compensator which releases a gas at the gun muzzle to compensate for the jerk of the barrel as the bullet leaves it.

By the use of tracer bullets at intervals among the 500 shots per minute of which the gun is capable, the inventor said, police or soldiers would be able to determine the mark where the bullets were reaching and direct the aim.

Oberlin, O., Sept. 22 (AP)—Declaring that "politics begins in the home town," Dr. Ernest Hatch Wilkins, president of Oberlin College, has offered his students free transportation to Cleveland and excused absences from classes if they wish to vote in the presidential election. He urged them to vote "intelligently."

COLORADO DEMS CHEER CURLEY ARRIVAL

Democrat of all sections of Colorado gathered in Denver last night to greet Mayor Curley when he spoke L. e in behalf of the Roosevelt-Garner ticket, according to word received at City Hall today by Cornelius A. Reardon, secretary to the street commission.

The mayor's journey from Los Angeles eastward has been a series of enthusiastic receptions. With his son, Leo, he flew from the West Coast to Salt Lake City where he was met by leading Democrats of the place, led by National Committeeman J. J. Ewing and by a committee representing the Knights of Columbus of Utah. During his stay there he was guest speaker at a rally attended by every Democratic candidate for political office in the state.

Before leaving the city Mayor Curley was the guest of Rev. Fr. Joseph Keefe, former Melrose boy. In a tour of Fr. Keefe's parish, during which he addressed the parochial school children, Mayor Curley met a man teaching in the school who is a member of the Sloan family of South Boston.

Journeying by train to Denver, the mayor made brief speeches to enthusiastic gatherings of Democrats at Helper, Klemmen, and Green River, Utah, and at Pueblo, Colo., speaking in the latter place for 30 minutes.

BARRY TO ASK FOR RECOUNT IN BOSTON'S 22 WARDS

Edward P. Barry of Boston, defeated by 1338 votes by John E. Swift of Milford for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant-governor, in the closest contest of the primaries mved for a recount of the Boston votes today.

Barry went to City Hall and procured application blanks for recounts in all of the 22 wards of the city.

He has until 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon to file these applications. The time for filing in all other cities and towns expired at 5 p.m. today and Barry did not have time to comply.

Barry carried Boston by 8841. He had announced he would not seek a recount, but changed his mind this afternoon.

ELY BLAST BY GOODWIN

The other leading development today in the political situation was a blast fired by Frank A. Goodwin, defeated by William S. Youngman for the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

Goodwin fired the opening gun in the campaign by announcing his support of Youngman and calling a Democratic victory for Gov. Ely a "menace."

Sen. James J. Twohig, of South Boston, defeated for renomination by Edward C. Carroll, announced he would ask a recount in that district.

Among the Democrats notice came that United States Senator David I. Walsh has been selected as permanent chairman and keynoter for the state convention in Lowell Oct. 1.

John W. Haigis, former state treasurer, will assume a like role at the Symphony Hall convention of Republicans a week from tomorrow.

CALLS ELY A MENACE

In the letter that pledged his support to Youngman, Goodwin added:

"It would be most unfortunate if the present Governor is re-elected.

"His alliance with and domination by the lowest type of Boston Democratic politicians, the organized tax dodgers and public utility tax dodgers, makes his re-election a menace to all the overburdened tax payers of this Commonwealth."

Amos L. Taylor, chairman of the Republican committee, also pledged support to Youngman and announced the appointment of Haigis as keynoter. Hanford McNider, former American Legion commander and present minister to Canada, was to have served but is unable to attend.

HEADED FOR HARMONY

The Senator Walsh appointment was announced by Joseph A. Maynard, chairman of the Democratic state committee. He said a temporary chairman would be selected in a few days.

Save for a score of Boston contests, in which recounts have been asked, political differences were on the mend today with a view toward party harmony in November.

Recount blanks were procured at City Hall today for the second and third governor's council districts. Blanks for recounts in a number of other contests were obtained late yesterday.

The second councillor district includes the following Boston wards, in addition to outside cities and towns: 1, East Boston; 12, Roxbury; 14 and 17, Dorchester; 18, Hyde Park; 19, Jamaica Plain, and 20, West Roxbury.

The nominees on the first count are Joseph B. Grossman, Quincy, (R), and Leo J. Halloran, Quincy (D.).

The third councillor district covers wards 4 and 5, Back Bay, and 21 and 22, Allston-Brighton, besides Brookline, Belmont, Concord, Framingham, Newton, Watertown, Weston and other towns, and wards 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10 and 11 of Cambridge.

Two women were nominated in this district—Mrs. Esther M. Andrews, Brookline, the incumbent, and Mrs. Jessie W. Brooks of Cambridge, Democrat.

Although the name of the person asking the recount will not be disclosed until the blank is filed, it is believed to be William J. Coughlan, Brookline, who was beaten by Mrs. Brooks.

BARRY WANTS NO COUNT

Recounts will be asked before closing time at 5 p. m., in at least 20 other Boston contests, while in Quincy, Rep. Edward J. Sandberg, oldest House member in point of service, will have a re-tabulation of the ballots which on the first count nominated Charles W. Hedges and Arthur I. Burgess over Sandberg.

State Auditor Francis X. Hurley, renominated, received the highest total of votes on the Democratic side, 154,041. Francis L. Prescott, nominated by the Republicans for state treasurer, received 252,692, and was the leader in the Republican field.

Democrats exceeded all past primary totals, polling approximately 310,000 votes, compared with 215,000 in 1930 and 203,000 in 1928. The final count in the Barry-Swift contest was, Swift 69,580, Barry 68,242.

The State tickets are: Governor, Youngman, Republican, and Ely, Democrat; lieutenant-governor, Bacon and Swift; secretary, Frederic W. Cook and J. F. Buckley; treasurer, Prescott and Charles F. Hurley; auditor, Alonzo B. Cook and Francis X. Hurley; attorney-general, Warner and J. P. Buckley.

GARRITY FOR SHERIFF

Stephen C. Garrity of Lowell former state commander, American Legion, won a hot contest for the Democratic nomination for sheriff in Middlesex County and will oppose Sheriff John R. Fairbairn in November. In Norfolk, Badger will oppose Sheriff Capen.

Judson Hannigan failed in an effort to supplant Mrs. Anna C. M. Tillinghast on the Republican state committee, so that a shakeup in this organization, which Mrs. Hannigan contemplated in behalf of a younger element, will evidently be postponed.

As pointed out in the Boston Evening American yesterday, numerous legislators fell by the wayside. Complete figures, subject to recounts, show that 35 representatives and three senators failed of renomination.

It's News if Man Bites Shark

Ever eat shark?

No? Well, it's a real delicacy as several friends of Walter Smith, Boston wholesale fish dealer, will learn at dinner tonight.

Walter called th-m up today and said he had a slice of nice, juicy shark for each of them. And all of them, being good sports, said they would try anything once—and so several housewives will fry shark for dinner tonight whether they like it or not.

Fox, Out of Training, Fails in Liberty Run

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—Pete, a red fox with a love for liberty mourns the fact that three years in a cage in Central Park Zoo is no training for a Marathon. He jumped a fence and streaked away, pursued by a couple of hundred citizens, but his flabby muscles gave out after a short run and he was carried back to captivity in a state of collapse.

Treasury Notes on Sale

Washington, Sept. 22—Secretary Mills announced that the Treasury would sell $100,000,000 in 91-day Treasury bills next Monday.

Boy Stealing Bucket of Coal Is Shot Dead

Chicago, Sept. 22 (INS)—For stealing a bucket of coal, John Gawlick, 12, paid with his life. He was shot dead by John Lechowski, watchman, who caught the lad in the act of gathering small pieces of coal in a lumber yard. Lechowski told police he fired into the air, intending merely to frighten the boy away. Young Gawlick was stealing the coal for his impoverished mother.

Maine Man Shot to Death

Portland, Me., Sept. 22 (AP)—The body of a man, believed to be Albin Lehtinen, formerly of Hebron, was found with a bullet through the head in a rooming house here today. A revolver was clutched in his hand.

Hoover Won't Go to Series Games

Washington, Sept. 22 (AP)—After attending the last three World Series, President Hoover today let it be announced that he would not be present at any of the games between the Chicago Cubs and the New York Yankees.

Attacker of Girl Faces Whipping

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 22 (INS)—Stephen Skulicki, 35, today awaited the ordeal of ten lashes for attacking a young Windsor girl. He was sentenced also to three months in jail.

It was the first whipping imposed here in two years.

2 GIRLS MISSING HUNT WOMAN

Worcester, Sept. 22—In the belief they were lured by a woman, two Wachusett st. sisters were sought in Rhode Island today after a search here that lasted through the night.

The woman clue was furnished police by Mrs. Fannie L. Packard, mother of the missing girls—Doris, 14, and Marion, 7.

Mrs. Packard told police that Doris met a woman on a Providence to Worcester bus last week, while he girl was returning from a visit with an aunt in Edgewood, R. I.

She spoke of offers made to her by the woman and later wrote the woman at an address the woman gave, the mother said. The letter was intercepted by the mother and turned over to police.

Spider in Throat of Malden Man for Half-Hour

A spider crawled down a Malden man's throat today but died before it could spin a web there.

John J. McCabe of Kenmore st., Malden, went into the dark cellar of a house on Harris st, in pursuit of oil business an dit something go into his month.

He thought it was a fly and that he had ejected it, but when he began to cough steadily for half an hour he was not sure.

So he went to Dr. Charles S. J. McNeil, who examined and probed and finally found hidden behind Mr. McCabe's larynx one spider complete with legs and dead. So out it came with the doctor's aid.

JOY-RIDING, BUT 'TWAS OFFICIAL

The mysterious disappearance of Motorcycle Officer Cornelius Canavan of Somerville was explained today.

It seems Canavan has been wandering around since Tuesday in testmeshes of pomp and ceremony with which Mayor Murphy chose to surround a mayoral visit to Maine.

Mayor Murphy returned from the reception accorded Governor-elect Frann in Lewiston, Me., bringing Canavan with him and revealing that Canavan had escorted the mayoral automobile clear to Lewiston and back, or 275 miles.

Canavan was on duty Tuesday when the mayor, going by, hit upon the idea of a little ceremony and invited the officer to cycle along in front. Ever since then, Canavan's superior officers have been hunting for him.

EVERETT PROBE SPLITS POLICE

His work on a $10,000 store robbery near Everett police station was interrupted to "run out" for coffee and sandwiches for superiors, Patrolman James J. O'Donnell of Everett told Frank G. Volpe, assistant district attorney of Middlesex County today.

Volpe charges the break was not reported to the store proprietor for three hours.

O'Donnell denied he was ordered to report the break immediately to the proprietor, Robert C. Brown, former Havard football star.

Lieut. James H. Richardson had previously said he ordered O'Donnell to report to Brown.

"I discovered the break at 5 a. m. and reported verbally," O'Donnell was quoted as saying. "Immediately I was told to run out for coffee and sandwiches and couldn't make a blotter report until later.

"At no time did superiors order me to report the break to Brown."

Henry Bowles Leaves Estate of $1,228,595

Springfield, Sept. 22 (AP)—An inventory of the estate of Henry L. Bowles, former Republican congressman from the First District and proprietor of a chain of lunch rooms, shows property valued at $1,228,595, of which $1,182,595 is personal property.

Lone Girl Saved at Sea

Genoa, Italy, Sept. 22 (U2)—Sailors here rescued a girl three miles off shore, after she sent out signs in a rowboat to make her way to America.

FRAUD QUIZ TO BE EXTENDED TO FIRMS

Investigation of the collection agency fraud ring by Middlesex County authorities took a new turn today when Ast. Dist. Atyt. Volpe said an inquiry had been started relative to the business concerns and creditors who hired the agency.

He said that if this new angle of the investigation shows that the business men who engaged the agency to collect debts for them knew of the questionable methods employed he would prosecute them, too.

Prosecutor Volpe revealed that hundreds of complaints from all sections of the State had come to him and to the State police.

A Boston man informed Volpe today that the investigation thus far has barely scratched the surface. The assistant district attorney plans to confer Saturday with persons who have written him or the State police relative to the manner in which they were defrauded by agents of the ring. In Middlesex County alone 23 persons have complained of the methods employed.

The investigation reveals that collectors presented two pieces of paper. The top sheet was a note in which the debtor when signing, acknowledged a debt.

The under sheet, which the person to whom it was submitted, never looked, proved to be a mortgage on all his personal property. The collector usually told the victim the second paper was a duplicate of the first.

EGYPTIAN GIRL AIDS BLIND

A twenty-five year old girl, a lone pioneer in her field, arrived here today from Cairo. She is Miss Zahya Ahmed Metwali representing the Egyptian Ministry of Education, and has come to study methods for teaching the blind at the Perkins Institution in Watertown.

Until now the Egyptian government has done nothing to educate its blind. During the last three years Miss Metwali has staged a one-woman campaign to induce the education department to provide schools for them.

Zahya Metwali

"It has been a long, hard pull to get Egypt to recognize that it has blind people. And with that accomplished, it has been almost impossible to arouse any official concern," Miss Metwali said in her classroom at the Watertown school today.

Before she interested the minister of education, so that he sent her here to study, the Egyptian girl worked alone, attempting to teach hygiene to the blind. She says she was successful and that she has been able to know that part of her work is social workers.

40 MILLION FOR TUNNEL ASKED

Washington, Sept. 22 (INS)—Formal application for a loan of nearly $40,000,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance a high speed traffic tunnel from Staten Island to Manhattan by way of Brooklyn will be made as soon as the engineering details can be prepared, it became known today.

Senator Wagner (D.) of New York, co-author of the omnibus relief bill under which the loan would be sought, expressed himself as pleased with the reception given the informal proposal laid before R. F. C. directors and engineering boards.

Wagner, Representative Prall (D.) of New York, President John A. Lynch of Richmond Borough, and P. H. Zurmuhlen and H. W. Gideman of the Richmond Transit Conference, discussed the preliminary proposal, outlining the plan and the probable income.

All Over Now

MARY VIRGINIA KANGUS

On the rocks is the May-December romance of Mrs. Mary Virginia Kangus, 22, and her 57-year-old mate of Salem. He's asked for a divorce.

DECEMBER-MAY ROMANCE ENDS

Salem, Sept. 22—The December-May romance of Matt Kangus, 57-year-old Beverly contractor, and his pretty 22-year-old wife, Mary Virginia, has ended it was revealed today when he filed suit for divorce in Salem Probate Court. He charged that Mrs. Kangus deserted him several months ago.

The couple were married February, 1929, after a brief courtship. They came into the limelight last year when Frank A. Seale, 60-year-old Beverly Romeo, was ordered by the courts to pay Kangus $2000 for alienating the affections of Mrs. Kangus.

During the suit, Seale testified that three days after Mr. and Mrs. Kangus were married they came to Seale's house and Kangus left his bride there overnight, saying that he must go to Gloucester to attend to his chickens.

KING OF SLOGAN WRITERS DIES

Grand Haven, Mich., Sept. 22 (INS)—Advertising men all over the world today mourned the death of Claude G. Hopkins, king of slogan writers.

Hopkins, an ex-newspaperman, became wealthy through his ability to coin advertising phrases that became catchwords, such as "keep that schoolgirl complexion," and "it floats."

Despite his wealth, he insisted upon living in simple surroundings, so he could "catch the thought of the masses."

He leaves his widow, and two daughters.

19 Drown in Amazon

Rio Janeiro, Sept. 22 (AP)—Word from Maranhao today said 19 persons were drowned in the wreck of a small steamer on the Amazon near there.

WOMAN FACING DEATH IN CHINA

Newchang, Manchuria, Sept. 22 (AP)—Another appeal for the rescue of herself and Charles Corkran, another British subject who was captured by Chinese bandits more than a week ago, was received today from Mrs. Pawley, who said the bandits planned to shoot them in a week, after cutting off their ears.

The note was received by Mrs. Pawley's father, together with another exorbitant demand for ransom.

"Get us out as soon as possible," the note said. "They are going to cut our ears and I rather want to keep mine. Have a week to live before we are shot."

Lincoln Memorial Plan Is Approved

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 22 (AP)—A committee of the G. A. R. has approved a plan for a $250,000 memorial near the tomb of Abraham Lincoln. A vast amphitheater will be built in a hillside glen back of the obelisk where Lincoln's body lies in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Lo, Poor Red Man Drops His Whoops for Whoopee

St. Paul, Sept. 22 (AP)—The war cry of the Indians has been replaced by "crooners" and the closest semblance to war paint is the rouge used by Indian flappers ready to make "whoopee."

That was the picture of the modern Indian drawn by M. K. Sniffen of Philadelphia, secretary of the Indian Rights Association, here yesterday.

"Sitting Bull undoubtedly would roll over in his grave," Sniffen said, "if he could witness the transformation a few years of civilization has wrought in the Indians."

The war cry—the hunts—the chiefs in war regalia—dancing around the cap fires preceding battle—are a thing of the past, he said. The sons and grandsons of the old Indian warriors who roamed the plains, living on buffalo and other wild meat, now work in factories or till the soil.

"The modern American Indian is an industrious and ambitious as the average white man," Sniffen declared. "The Indians are not a vanishing race as they are depleted. In 1890 there were 250,000 Indians in the United States, while there are 345,000 at present living on 300 reservations."

Striking Miners Release Hostage

Amos, Que., Sept. 22 (AP)—A critical situation which developed among 30 workers at the Le Roy mines when their wages were unpaid and food ran short was improved today. Arthur Melkman, manager of the mines, held as a hostage by the workers, reached here last night. He said money he brought to the mines to pay transportation of the miners to Amos was used to buy supplies. The men were determined to remain.

THE FORT DEARBORN MASSACRE

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the artist, N. C. Wyeth... inspired by the heartless treachery of a band of vicious Miami Indians, who massacred the settlers with inhuman ferocity... August 15, 1812.

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"
That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.
Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

JOHNSON FLAYS AID TO BANKS, NONE TO POOR

Modesto, Cal., Sept. 22 (UP)—With a stirring plea for restoration of government to the people, Sen. Hiram Johnson in an address before the convention of the California Federation of Labor, launched a vitriolic attack on the Federal government's policy of providing billions in relief for Wall Street but none for human beings, denounced the motives of advocates of war debt cancellation, and urged a return to true progressivism. He said:

NOTHING FOR PUBLIC

"Tight has been the purse strings of the government for human relief. On the other hand the masters of our destinies, with myopic vision, see only railroads and banks. Their blurred sight cannot distinguish just human beings.

"Our progressive doctrine means not only financial relief to banks and railroads, but aid to the suffering and destitute. It means employment relief to human beings.

"A government that thinks only in terms of banks and railroads, forgets farmers whose homes are being taken from them, toilers whose wages have been decreased to the perilous line near a fair living wage, and workers who through no fault on their part have no work to do, is unworthy of the name and unfit to govern.

"After all, this government is your government and mine. It doesn't belong wholly to J. P. Morgan & Co. and international bankers.

WAGES DECREASED

"Unemployment has increased and wages have decreased. Banks have been given money with a generosity never before exercised. Has this money reached those who, upon fair, ordinary security, seek loans? Railroads have received the funds of the government which belongs to all. Have railroads maintained their wages? Banks haven't resumed normal lending and railroads have reduced the wages of their employes.

"Our supermen of finance apparently are not content with having thoroughly plucked America with the stock manipulations, and unloading depreciated and worthless foreign bonds. The whole pack of international bankers are now in full cry for cancellation of the debts justly due our government for European nations."

INDUSTRIES IN R. I. BOOMING

Providence, R. I., Sept. 22 (INS)—A rosy picture of increasing employment in practically all industries throughout Rhode Island was painted today by State Commissioner of Labor Daniel McLaughlin, in his monthly report on employment conditions.

A survey of 219 manufacturing plants throughout the state showed an average pickup in employment of 16 per cent at the end of August as compared with July, and 21.8 per cent over June.

The total number employed in these plants on Sept. 1 was 47,340, compared to 40,875 on Aug. 1.

Included in the industries reporting were rubber, building materials, jewelry, cotton, wool, and silk textiles, and leather goods.

Children Play in Jail; Mother Held

While her three children played about in the Brookline police station today, Mrs. Hazel Buckley, 35, of White Plains, N. Y., spent her time in a cell there, awaiting arrival of a White Plains officer. She was arrested by Patrolman Herbert Lynn, who spied an auto in Washington sq. which New York authorities had asked Greater Boston police to seek more than a month ago. The children were in the car with her. Mrs. Buckley told police that she had been given permission to use the car until she found a job and she said she had found work and was going to return the machine.

University Swindler Draws 7-Year Term

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 22 (AP)—John A. Machray, former bursar of the University of Manitoba, was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment on each charge today after he had pleaded guilty to the theft of $901,175 from the University and of $60,000 from Heber Archibald, his former law partner. His sentences will run concurrently.

HORNSBY PEEVED OVER LOSS OF MELON SLICE

FANNING

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

Holy Cross Freshie. ↑ Risk, Real Champion.
Son of Famous Sire. Pitching' Horseshoes.
Bay State Football. ↓ Rabbit 11 Nov. 11.

Should Be Big Help to Mother When He Grows Up

AT HOLY CROSS, the other day, a mite of a freshman, 6 feet 2 inches in his socks, 225 pounds in weight, 18 years of age, and, according to his mother, "still growing," reported. If blood counts for anything, the tiny freshie will do something in athletics for the Purple. His name is Joe McDonald. He is a son of Big Pat McDonald, the old Olympian and world's record holder with the shot and weights. Seventeen years ago, but it seems yesterday, we were crossing Broadway at 43d st, when we met Traffic Officer McDonald—Pat is a lieutenant in the N. Y. police department now—escorting sonbrettes across the Great White Way. Pat and I were teammates and pals. "Hullo, Pat," we greeted. "And how's the baby? How is little Joe?" With a Celtic twinkle in his eye the giant cop answered, "George, and would ye belave it! When I wint home last night, dommed if I didn't find that kid usin' my 56-pound weight for a rattle!"

WE REMEMBER WHEN Holy Cross Joe McDonald's Pa and Ma were married. Pa weighed 261 and Ma—119! The Irish will tell you Joe McDonald's mother is right when she says her tiny 225-pound son still is growing. Pat McDonald comes from where Limerick and Tipperary meet on the Shannon. They mature late there. A boy is a "b'y" until he's past 30. It's a sort of a land of Tir Na Ogue—the place where nobody never grows old. And they grow a race of giants there. For a full century the world's weight throwing championship never left the banks of the Shannon. It came down through the Davins, Real, Mitchell, Flanagan, McGrath, McDonald and Ryan. It also was in the foxtail grass of old Limerick that the Derby winners, Ard Patrick and Galtee Moore, were foaled. Holy Cross Joe McDonald's old man will tell you "Limerick is a great land for both men and beasties."

DOWN IN THE L ST. BATHS, recently, before William "Hiker" Joy left for Gotham to resume his duties as right-hand bower of Major Cavanaugh, "Hiker" opined that in Johnny Del Isola, Fordham might have found another Tony Siano. We note "Cav" is building the new Maroon line around him. Speaking of Fordham the Maroon has an all-Boston coaching staff in Cavanaugh, Joy and John "Dinny" McNamara, the old Eagle. Incidentally, Massachusetts furnishes more college football players and coaches than any state in the Union . . . Fordham has no monopoly on Bay State boys. On the N. Y. U. squad one finds Bob McNamara, Wellesley; Billy McNamara, Arlington; Johnny McDonald, Dedham; Val Connolly and Emilio DeBenedictis, Medford; Johnny Kohler, Roslindale; Leon Smeltsor, Norwood; Maynard White, Haverhill, and Bob Bolton, Malden . . . Harvard's big squad has a whole parcel of Bay Staters, including Mal Bancroft, Tom Locke, George Bartol, Irving Rabinovitz and Pierce Teller of Boston; Gerard Cassedy, Bob Hurlbut, Dick Dow and Nate Neer of Cambridge; Dick Waters, Dick Werner, "Barney" Feins and Chester Litman, Brookline; Sam Walcott, Frank Littlefield and Tom Gannett, Milton; Warren Casey and Morrie Koplow, Dorchester; Francis and Don Gleason, Newton; Carl Pescolido, Newtonville; Ira Hardy, Waltham; Johnny Hutchinson, Lexington; Francis Crane, Everett; Gridley Barrows, Sharon; Johnny Healey, Lowell; Roger Hallowell, Readville; George Bennett, Hingham; Johnny Dean, Cohasset; Johnny Grady, Somerville, and Deeb Peters, Melrose.

IN FRONT OF MARK NOONE'S blacksmith shop and down behind Billy Goodnow's barn we've pitched horseshoes many times. We've seen horseshoe pitchers from Maine to Florida. But we've never seen a horseshoe pitcher the equal of Sammy Risk, the American champion, who gave an exhibition at the St. Moritz Club, West Quincy, the other night. He has rung 18 out of 50, 93 out of a 100. In an exhibition match with Jimmy O'Shea of Brockton over the regulation 40 foot pitch, Risk ringed 44 out of 50 pitches. And O'Shea's score of 62 per cent wasn't so bad either. Risk rings 'em blind with a blanket hiding the pin. Set a dozen pins up in bowling formation and call the pins and Risk will ring them, one by one, for you. The skill of this 23-year-old youth from the cornfields of Indiana is uncanny. Interest in horseshoe pitching? Did you know there are more than 50 horseshoe pitching clubs in New England?

SPEAKING OF BAY STATE football players Georgetown chips in with Alan Cohen, Boston; Larry Sullivan, Medford; Stanley Alenty, Amesbury; Bill Carpenter, Framingham; Hilarey Costello, Haverhill and Fred Callahan, Dedham.

RABBIT MARANVILLE will be 41 on November 11, Armistice Day, but he's still livelier than a cricket, and may yet equal or break the record years Wagner and Cobb starred in the big leagues . . . We ran into Jack Slattery, scout of the Braves, in Warmuth's this morning. Every time we see Jack we remember a crack he made down in Gawgia. Meeting in Macon, Braves and Yanks swung North together playing a series of exhibition games. First stop was Dublin, Ga. Jack and I hopped off train together. A newsie shoved a copy of the Dublin Citizen in our hands. Across top page a banner line screamed, "Mayor Isadore Bashinsky to throw out opening ball." A smile wrinkled the corner of Slattery's eyes as he exclaimed, "Bashinsky Mayor of Dublin? Ireland isn't Ireland any more!"

Tap's Triple Combination

Tap was out drawing cartoons of school boy football stars today when somebody mistook 'em for a dummy or something and hit him with a solid gold flying smash immediately he saw 'em. But Tap likes nothing better than seein' stars. He always lucks numbers in them. Look around a bit and you'll find the Lip that Tap discovered in the heavens.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN SPORTS

Grid Spotlight -:- Shines on This Kicking Chorus -:- At Harvard

Because they're putting the heavy hand of the law on burlesque shows you may think that high kickers will be out-moded. But Eddie Casey will find plenty of use for them this fall and there is an optimistic gleam in his eyes when he surveys this crew of pigskin wreckers. From Gleason, Hurlbut, Bennett, Dean and Whitney (l. to r.) Casey will pick the man who will bear the brunt of the Crimson's booting attack and defense.

SCRIMMAGE ON B. C. PROGRAM FOR TODAY

Another stiff scrimmage is on the Boston College gridiron card this afternoon for the members of the varsity squad and a few of those who reported last week for the first time and were members of the freshman team last year.

McKenney is highly pleased at the work done by Henry Plausse, the fast tackle who is on the first team now due to the injury of Dick Reynolds, giant tackle who will be on the injured list until the Center game on Columbus Day. Plausse was a regular in 1929 but could not play last year.

CURRAN ABLE BACK

As a result of the scrimmages of this week it is obvious that Bobby Curran the lightning back on team B is going to see plenty of active service.

Roscoe Taylor the giant 185 pound right guard is fast developing into another Al Morelli, the Fevver youth who made good on the B. C. line a couple years ago. His steady plugging at that position indicates that little ground will be gained this fall through his part of the line. Together with his captain, Phil Cushig they form great defensive pair.

ORMSBY FINDS ENDS

Bill Ormsby, the end coach of the varsity, apparently has found his wing material for the current campaign in Gordon Connors, Paul Donohue and Eddie Anderson. Lou Musco, the husky gentleman who played and was injured at end last year will rejoin the squad in time for the Marquette game in the latter part of October. These men will be the reserves for Toal and Killian this fall and in all probability regulars for next year.

Johnny Freitas and Bucky Warren will be the opposing quarterbacks this afternoon. Both have been doing good work this week at the scrimmages.

At a meeting of the graduate board last night final plans were drawn up for the dedication of the new Alumni Field on October 1st at the Loyola game.

BRAVES' MONEY HOPES FADE

New York, Sept. 22—Here since last Sunday, the Boston Braves will remain until next Sunday, but they won't play ball again until Saturday, when they'll go over the bridge to Brooklyn to close the campaign in a two-game series with the Dodgers.

The rest will be a very pleasant one for the Warriors. They came here hopeful of finishing in the money and after they whipped the Giants in the opening game they had visions of third place. Said visions must have blinded them, or something, for they dropped the next two verdicts, and now haven't a chance in a million of sharing in the series melon.

Only if they whip the Dodgers twice and the Phils are beaten four in a row can Bill McKechnie and his boys reach fourth. Third place for them is now a mathematical impossibility.

Betting Even Money Ruth Doesn't Hit 2 Home Runs

By DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, Sept. 22 (INS)—Yankee money, so urgent and imperious that it will neither recognize comical prices nor listen to logic, has flooded the eastern market on next week's World Series, practically forcing a moratorium today.

This, anyhow, is the story of John T. Doyle, who ought to know. He handles most of the eastern money on sports events of outstanding merit, and he has handled all the one-way bets he wants on this one.

That's one part of the story. The other is that, privately as well as professionally, John T. Doyle likes the Cubs at the odds, although the opinion may not be wholly platonic and non-partisan. He hasn't seen the size of a Cub dollar so far.

"Baseball prices are not made by the respective abilities of the two clubs," says he. It's all a matter of supply and demand."

HERE'S THE SCALE

So he has placed the following scale against the various possibilities of the series, noting an exception at this time only in the case of straight bets on the American League entry:

For the series, Yankees 3 to 5; Cubs 3 to 2.

Against winning the first two games, Yankees 7 to 5, Cubs 3½ to 1.

Against Ruth hitting one home run, 1 to 2.

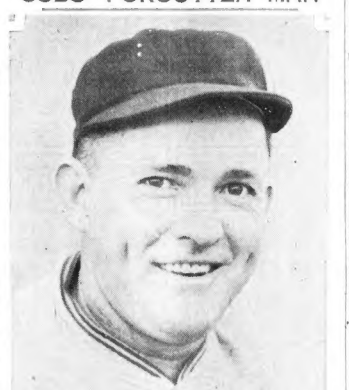
Against one home run by any Cub who is specifically named, even money.

It might seem from this that the man is tremendously unimpressed with the Cubs, whereas, the contrary is quite the case, and he merely is conforming to the modern meantime playing human nature for the sucker it always is.

CUBS ON STRANGE LOT

"The heavy play on the Yanks for the series naturally affects their price for the first game," he says. "Besides, the Cubs will be playing in a strange park, and don't figure to get away so well. However, I don't think the first game will be so important this time, unless the Yanks bow it. If they do, the Cubs ought to walk in."

CUBS' FORGOTTEN MAN



Just another candidate who took a licking at the polls is Rogers Hornsby, principal in a "dropping the pilot" act with the Chicago Cubs this season. A vote by the Cubs players as to whether or not Rajah should share in the World Series cut eliminated Rogers from the pay off. And is Rogers dis-

ROGERS IS BACK AT GUARD FOR CRIMSON

Eddie Rogers, Harvard varsity right guard, will be back at his post in the Crimson frontier, when the regulars clash with the second varsity this afternoon in the second scrimmage of the year. Rogers was given a clean bill of health today by Dr. Augustus Thorndike, team physician, and discarded the white jersey worn by the injured members of the squad, to don the Crimson service jacket.

Hoge Cassidy was the first of the Harvard varsity to return with injuries which have been all too numerous at the Stadium this fall. But he refused to quit entirely and followed practice every day, so that he has not lost a great deal of ground by his week's absence and should fit nicely into the Team A.

But there is another side to the story. Roger's injury and consequent retirement . . . is the only cut set of the season's practice gave Herman Gunlach, last year's freshman standout, an opportunity to break into the varsity line-up. Gunlach filled the position so well that Roger's absence, while felt, was not considered calamitous.

ROGERS FACES "IGHT

As a result, instead of grabbing off the regular guard be. h by virtue of his greater experience in varsity competition, Rogers will find that he has a fight on his hands to beat out the flashy sophomore.

Today's scrimmage, like th t of Tuesday, will be purely offensive for the varsity. Casey feels that he must . . . his running smoothly before the opening of classes next week cuts short the time available for practice and limits his workouts to a sho.t period in the afternoon. The two periods a day have worked wonders with the squad, but they w end on to borrow and next week th Crimson coaches will have to start hoarding forward to the opening game.

ASSIGNMENTS BIG POINT

Vic Kennard, Harvard kicking coach, holds a daily class at the Stadium, which opens its session a half hour before the rest of the squad begins to arrive. Among Kennard's foremost pupils are quarterback, Harry "Danny" Wells, Johnny Dean, first string right halfback; Stanton Whitney, substitute signal caller; Bobby Hurlbut and George Bennett, team B halfbacks.

HEAT HINDERS YALE WORK

New Haven, Sept. 22—Yale's football practice met interference from the weather as heat forced Mal Stevens to cut the morning workout and prevented scrimmage in the p. m.

A long scrimmage stressing the forward pass occupied much of the afternoon.

YANKEE, CUB HILL GROUPS BALANCE

This is the third of a series comparing the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs, written by Joe Cashman, baseball editor of the Boston Evening American.

By JOE CASHMAN

Placing the names of the leading Yankee and Cub pitchers in a hat and ranking them according to the way they are drawn is as safe a way as any we know of deciding which team is the stronger in the box.

In other words, the hurling brigades, which will match speed and curves in the coming Worlds Series, defy comparison.

Each club has nine hurlers eligible; the Yanks six right-handers and three southpaws and the Cubs eight right-handers and only one portsider.

Manager Charlie Grimm has already announced that Guy Bush will hurl the first game for the National Leaguers. His opponent, in all probability, will be Charlie Ruffing, one of the four ex-Red Sox on the Yankee staff.

YANKS' HURLERS HELPED

Ruffing has won 18 games and lost seven. Bush has won 19 and lost 11. It must be remembered, though, when the season's records of these two and all the other hurlers are compared, that the Yankee moundmen have been aided by a much stronger attack than their Windy City brethren.

Bush is an ideal choice to open the series, being completely lacking in imagination. The first World Series game before a hostile crowd of 75,000 and a meaningless game against a last-place club played at home before empty stands are just the same to him; merely another day's work.

Ruffing is not as calm and collected. He won't need to be, as the gang in the stands will be with him. He's cocky enough to think he can whip the Cubs easily and should he carry that attitude into battle, he'll be very hard to beat.

The second game will probably

ENTITLED TO SHARE, SAYS RAJAH

Chicago, Sept. 22 (INS)—Rogers Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs until Aug. 2, expressed indignation today when informed he had not been "cut in" on the profits his former teammates will receive from the World Series.

The Cubs players and Manager Charley Grimm at a meeting in the Wrigley Field clubhouse yesterday agreed upon a split of the proceeds without making any allowance for Hornsby. Notified of this action by telephone at his home in Anghum, Mo., the "Rajah" declared:

SOMETHING FUNNY

"There's something funny about this. I should have been counted in on the World Series money.

"Who is more entitled to a share than I am? I had the team for the better part of the season. I built the club up. I played in right-field and at third base in addition to being manager."

Members of the losing team in the series will receive about $5,000, while players on the champion club will be awarded more than $7,000, according to baseball experts.

Chicago Fans Welcome Cubs With Open Arms

Chicago, Sept. 22 (AP)—From the bleachers of Wrigley Field, down through the skyscraper canyons of Chicago's loop and into the mayor's chambers at the City Hall the victory spirit of Charlie Grimm's championship Cubs flared today.

It was "Cub Day" and the baseball-minded of the city planned the sports demonstration of the year to cheer the team that hoisted the National League pennant over Chicago for the second time since 1929.

Manager Grimm, his teammates and Cub officials, down to Tony, the bat boy, joined in the celebration by forming a parade at Wrigley Field and driving through the city streets as conquering heroes. Upwards of 150,000 persons were expected to line the streets along the line of march from the ball park to the City Hall, where Mayor Anton J. Cermak had a victory speech ready.

PIRATES NEXT

The celebration over, the banjo-strumming pilot of the new National League champions planned to jump right back into the more serious side of baseball by meeting Pittsburgh's Pirates in the third from final game of the season before tackling the thundering Yankees in the World Series next Wednesday.

As the World Series spirit filled the city today, Grimm probably was the busiest man in Town. Although the pennant was clinched, he called his players together for snappy baseball in the final three games.

"We can't let up," he snapped. "We should taper off with nothing but good baseball and then go after the Yankees."

"The Cubs will start for New York and their big World Series adventure Monday noon, arriving in New York Tuesday morning in plenty of time for a workout at Yankee Stadium that afternoon.

LOOK FOR RUFFING

Scoffing at all "master-minding," the Cub manager, who led his team to the pennant in less than two months at the helm, today stuck to Guy Bush as his choice to hurl the series opener in New York.

"We expect Ruffing to toss 'em against us in the opener," he said, "but we don't care who it is. My pick, so far, is Bush."

HOOVER WON'T ATTEND SERIES

Washington, Sept. 22 (INS)—The New York Yankees and the Chicago Cubs will open the World Series Wednesday with one distinguished man absent.

President Hoover, who has attended one World Series game each year since his White House occupancy, will not be present at any of the games this year.

"He has work to do for his country and he is doing it," Theodore Joslin, secretary to the President, said today.

SARAZEN ENTERS HOLE-IN-ONE TOURNEY

GENE CLAIMS WINNER MUST BE LUCKY

By BILL GRIMES

Gene Sarazen, holder of both the British and the American open golf crowns announced today that he would compete in the Boston Evening American's Hole-In-One tournament which will get underway on the specially constructed 19th hole at Franklin Park beginning next Tuesday.

Sarazen's entry into this tournament, which has caught the imagination of hundreds of golf enthusiasts, accompanied that of another young man who is not exactly a novice with a No. 6 iron himself, Jesse Guilford.

Guilford heard of the Boston Evening American's new contest for golfers while he was battling the top flight players in the national amateur championship at Five Farms, Baltimore, and determined to try his skill and luck against the field.

CHAMPIONS IN PLAY

It will be nothing less than Old Home Week for Massachusetts golfers when the Hole-In-One tourney committee send the first competitor to the tee on September 27. A large representation of present and past state and national champions have already sent in their entries.

Almost every golf club around New England plans to send at least one representative to the Hole-In-One contest, and many of the clubs have selected teams with the sole purpose of waltzing off with the team prize.

The Knights of Columbus, through the several councils located around Boston, also plan to compete for the team prize. Each council will select a team to enter, before this Saturday, which is the closing time for entries.

GENE LUCKY, SAYS GENE

Returning for a moment to Gene Sarazen, for the assurance of those entered in the Hole-In-One contest who are inclined to minimize their chances of winning one of the many valuable prizes, Sarazen confessed to the writer that he counted solely on luck to carry him through.

"It may seem odd for me to say that I don't think skill has anything to do with winning this tournament, but nevertheless, it's true," said Sarazen.

"Beyond the slight ability necessary to get your ball to go in the direction of the green, I don't think it matters much whether you are a national champion or the neighborhood joke once you tee off."

Both Sarazen and Guilford declared the layout back of the 18th green at Franklin Park was ideally suited to a tournament of this kind. Both golfers were enthusiastic to the point of wanting to try a few practice shots off the tee. But they refrained from so doing when it was pointed out that no one would try the course until the tournament was officially declared on.

WOMEN MAY ENTER

In the hundreds of entries for the Hole-In-One tournament, it is notable that women golfers—who almost equal the number of men playing around the links these days—are much fewer in number than men entrants for this tournament.

While many of the women golf luminaries are planning to take in the national at Salem during the week of the tournament, as many are planning to take in both contests—and in the past few days the feminine end of the tourney list has been growing rapidly.

The Boston Evening American's Hole-In-One tourney is open to all over the age of 16, either men or women. Mail your entry blank now, and be sure to specify your preference in starting time.

What the Stars Did

By the Associated Press

Dizzy Dean, Cardinals—Blanked the Reds with five hits and struck out five.

Carl Hubbell, Giants—Allowed but six hits in 10 innings and started the rally that beat the Braves, 2 to 1.

Ralph (Red) Kress, White Sox—Hit a home run, four doubles and two singles to help beat Detroit twice.

Hole-in-One Golf Entry Blank

Here you are, aces! Here's your entry blank for the Boston Evening American's hole-in-one golf tourney, to be held beginning Tuesday, September 27. Dub or star, anyone over 16 is eligible. Details appear elsewhere on this page. Send your entry blank to the Golf Editor, Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston.

HERE'S WHERE YOU'LL SHOOT FOR HOLE-IN-ONE

Almost the perfect one-shoter . . . That's what golfers who have seen this specially built hole out at Franklin Park are saying. It's approximately 115 yards, sloping to a well banked green, 48 by 50 feet. It's a sporting proposition that any golfer, star or duffer, should like. All you have to do is shoot five balls at the cup (it's a natural mashie or mashie niblick shot but you can use any club you wish) and the closest to the cup at the end of the competition wins the main prize, an expensive sport wrist watch. There are five other hand-some prizes as well as two trophies for team competition.

GRID RULES EXPLAINED BY OKESON

The annual football rules interpretation meeting was held at the gymnasium of the B. A. A. with more than 500 coaches and officials present.

Walter Okeson, commissioner of officials in the East, answered questions

Okeson gave a long interpretation of all the rule changes. One of his interpretations applies to rule 10, section 2, articles 3 and 4. Okeson said that there doubtless will be cases where a runner will crawl, and, seeing him move ahead, opponents will pile on. In such cases there is a foul by each team, and the play will be played over unless the captain of team A refuses the "piling on" penalty.

Steve Halaiko 10-to-8 Choice Over Tommy Rawson's Boy

By JACK CONWAY

Steve Halaiko of Buffalo comes bobbing back into a local ring gionight when he tosses leather at Tommy Rawson, Jr., of East Boston in a ten-round bout at an Argonne A. A. show at the Arena.

The last time Halaiko showed here he was beaten by Sammy Fuller at Braves Field. Fuller blazed out front in the opening rounds, but was obliged to stand off a furious Halaiko rally in the closing sessions.

HALAIKO CAPABLE

Halaiko has beaten Sammy Mandell, former lightweight champion of the world, and a flock of other sturdy boxers. He first bowed into the Hub as an amateur. His ability to box and hit made him a star in the nationals.

Halaiko has been installed a 10 to 8 favorite for tonight's go.

Old Man Opportunity will be knocking on Rawson's door. If the latter can lick Halaiko he will be able to secure matches with the leading lightweights in the country. Tommy recently returned from a health camp in Maine where he acted as a counsellor. He weighs 136 pounds, and looks to be in splendid physical condition.

RAWSON EXPERIENCED

Rawson has gained a great deal of experience in bouts with local ring warriors. He feels he is now all set to crash into the big money.

Dutch Leonard of Waltham will try to prove they can come back when he tangles up with Eino Nyholm of Maynard in the six-round semifinal.

Another six-round event will bring together Buster Thiel of Norwood and Johnny Dixon of Norwood. It is expected that this go will develop into a punching duel.

Magic Coin Picks Halaiko to Win Over Rawson

YANKS, CUBS MOUND STAFFS ARE EQUAL

find Vernon Gomez, sensational young southpaw of the McCarthyites, facing Charlie Root, veteran right-hander of the Cubs.

Gomez has turned in a truly remarkable record this season, winning 24 games as against seven defeats. In this respect, he is far superior to Root, who has won 14 and lost 11.

ALLEN EXPLOSIVE

The young Spaniard, though, hasn't done so well of late. He has won regularly but he has often been hit hard and found for many runs. It is hinted that his arm is slightly sore.

Lon Warneke and Johnny Allen, prize rookie right-handers of the Cubs and Yanks, respectively, are listed for the third game, the opener in Chicago. The former has won 22 and lost six and the latter has won 15 and lost 3. Each leads his league.

Warneke appears to be without a weakness. If Allen has one, it is his temper. He sees "red" when the breaks go against him. But here the best of the Yanks' side-armers and that type of delivery raises havoc with batters in the Cubs' park because of the background from which the ball sails up to the plate out there.

We must rate Warneke the better. If he loses the Yankees all-around clubs and not any superiority on Allen's part should be the reason.

Pipgras for the Yanks and Pat Malone for the Cubs are due to meet in the fourth game. Each of these right-handers has plenty of stuff. Each is bothered by wildness. We think Malone the wilder. Consequently, Pipgras appears the more effective.

PENNOCK MAY TOSS

Herb Pennock, veteran New York southpaw, is the only other pitcher who has a chance to start. This little stylist was long the greatest of southpaws. He's now reached the stage where he's either very good or useless. If he has a good day, he'll toy with the Cubs. If he's off, he won't last long.

The Yanks reserves consist of Danny MacFayden, Gordon Brown, Charlie Devens and Ed Wells. Only the first and last mentioned have a chance to see action.

The Cubs can and will, if necessary, use Bud Tinning, Bobby Smith, Burleigh Grimes and Jakie May to finish up.

So the National Leaguers are better off in second-line defense.

Because of the real or fancied superiority of the Yankee offense, Joe McCarthy's pitchers as a group, shape up slightly better than Charlie Grimm's conundrum. Give the two staffs supporting casts of equal strength and its our belief that the Windy City crew would prove just as effective.

WALTHAM TWI NINE SERIES VICTOR

Waltham Town team joined St. Thomas as one of the semi-pro champions in Greater Boston by winning the seventh game of the Boston Twilight League series and the championship from Allston.

Waltham won four games, Allston two and one was a deadlock during the series, which provided one of the biggest two upsets in these parts for years.

Allston won both halves of the Boston Twilight League race, while Waltham had to battle South Boston and Concord to get into the title bracket. Allston was a big favorite to win the crown, but found Waltham a fighting team with plenty of pitching and hitting ability.

Last night's game wound up 8 to 5 in favor of Waltham and ended the battling for the flag. Waltham got only seven hits in Allston eight, but they combined Allston errors and passes with hits for victory. Natoli's hitting, including a long homer, and Loman's three blows were big factors.

Waltham's champions may continue playing through next week and hope to arrange a series with St. Thomas or the Markeens, while Allston starts a series with Belindale next Sunday.

CROWDER HAS IMPRESSIVE RECORD

By RILEY GRANNON

Entirely unnoticed by the majority of fans and scribes, General Alvin Crowder of the Senators has been compiling one of the most respectable pitching records in either league this season and he may have a record or two to his credit when the race ends.

While the headlines were featured the feats of Gomez, Grove, Warneke, Allen and Weaver this pleasant, soft-spoken Southern descendant of Alvin Crowder, famous Union general in the Civil War, has gathered for himself a total of 24 victories and hasn't suffered a defeat in his last 14 starts.

He'll face the Red Sox in the fourth and final game of the series at the Fens this p. m. If he wins he'll work again Sunday in an effort to equal the American League record of 16 consecutive victories and possibly lead the hurlers of both leagues in number of victories this season. Grove, who has won 25, alone tops him in total triumphs.

CROWDER FEARS SOX

Crowder fears today's assignment far more than he does facing the A's after only two days of rest on Sunday. And not without cause. He has at least held his own with every other club in the circuit this far, but the Fenway flock has beaten him three times in five starts.

The White Sox have been unfriendly to the General. He beat them eight times in as many attempts. Cleveland helped by failing before him in four out of five games. He has licked the A's four out of six and has broken even with the Yanks and Browns.

Crowder had a very poor start this season, which probably accounts for the scant attention his great work has attracted. When he started his victory streak his record read 10 wins and 11 losses.

PITCHES OUT OF TURN

Once he realized he had a chance to equal the mark for straight wins set by his manager, Walter Johnson, and Joe Wood of the Red Sox away back in 1912 and tied last season by "Lefty" Grove, Crowder started working out of turn and for the past month, he has never had more than three days of rest between games and has often gone back after only two days of leisure.

If the General fails to whip the Sox, he'll be the only Washington pitcher who had a chance to and didn't on this trip. Both Dirk Coffman and Fred Marberry had to be relieved in Wednesday's twi-night, but each managed to duplicate Monte Weaver's first game feat of gaining credit for a win over the natives.

The opening tilt went 10 innings with the visitors winning, 7 to 6. Gordon Rhodes actually outpitched Coffman. The breaks beat him.

The Sox came from behind twice to tie the second game, but lost out, 3 to 2, when the Solons put over a run at Welland's expense in the ninth.

If the hapless Sox now owned half the games they have lost by one run this year, they would be at the top instead of the bottom of the league. An unluckier club we have never seen.

Alexander Is Leading Foxx by Three Points

After going hitless in his first four trips to the plate in the series with the Senators, Dale Alexander banged out four safeties in his next seven attempts and as Jimmy Foxx, in the meantime, could make only one in four, the Sox first-sacker now leads his Mackian rival by three points in the race for the American League batting championship.

	AB.	RH.	PCT.
Alexander	377	156	.361
Foxx	367	203	.358

Foxx's lone hit against the Yanks, incidentally, was a home run, his 34th of the season. He must make six more in four games to tie Babe Ruth's best mark.

Manager Marty McManus of the Sox must have forgotten his plan to use Smead Jolley back of the bat in every game until the race ends. Benny Tate donned the mask and protector in Wednesday's night-cap against the Senators after J. Smead had done a bang-up job of receiving Dusty Rhodes in the opener.

Rhodes never has pitched a better game and it was a shame that he was lefeated, 1 to 0, in 10 innings, because of a balk made while the batter was trying to get out of the way of the pitch.

Dizzy Dean followed up his brilliant victory over the Braves on Sunday last by blanking the Reds yesterday to keep the Cards in the race for sixth place. The ex-champions would be in the cellar but for the eccentric Texan's work all season.

The Yankees used the same lineup they are expected to start against the Cubs in the opening game of the World's Series when they were beaten by the A's, with young Harry Cain pitching, yesterday. Combs, Sewell, Ruth, Gehrig, Lazzeri, Dickey, Chapman, Crosetti and Ruffing went down, 6 to 4, which may or may not mean a thing.

Ruth, making his first appearance in the lineup since seized with an appendicitis attack in Detroit over two weeks ago, made one single in four times at bat and had one putout and no errors in the field. He'll play in the three games here against the Sox, starting tomorrow.

ENGLISH HIGH HAS LARGEST SQUAD IN HISTORY

NEW MENTOR FACES HARD GRID TASK

By JOE MOONEY

If Bill Ohrenberger's 1932 English high school eleven doesn't win the city championship this year—a feat which the team just missed when it suffered its one setback at the hands of Charlie Fitzgerald's Latin eleven last fall—it will not be because the ex-Boston College grid star was handicaped for lack of players in his first year as head coach.

The Blue and Blue, perenially one of the largest of schoolboy grid squads, this year broke all records with a count of 210 candidates for the first practice of the season at Billings Field, West Roxbury. This figure has since been reduced to a working 150 aspirants and will be further cut to about 25 players when the season is fully underway.

Handling 150 candidates keeps Ohrenberger moving almost as fast as he did in his own grid days at Boston College. The squad is one of the most inexperienced in English High's history. And Bill's ambition is to introduce the Warner system, with single and double wingback formations, this fall. It is a large order for one coach, without any assistants, to fill.

TEAM HAS NO CAPTAIN

English is another school without a captain, as yet. Most of last year's graduates are scattered around New England, and are too busy making their various preparatory school elevens to do much balloting for their Alma Mater.

For an all round back for whom to build his offense, Ohrenberger has Bill "Jumbo" Loughman, 168-pound kicker, passer, and line bucker who was conspicuous on Coach Schelbusiness team last year. "Jumbo" Timmins gave Johnnie Mannix, the fastest dash man in the city and captain of the English high track team. This is Mannix's third season with the Blue and Blue.

BATTLES BROTHERS WAY

Other promising backs available are Bill Little, 150-pound hurdler and high jumper, the brothers Charles, Jack and Valley of West Roxbury, and Bud "weeney, a great kicking possibility now starring his first year of football with English.

Ohrenberger is even more richly supplied with line material. To take the place of tackle and ex-Capt. Jim Costello, is Bud Costello, Jim's brother, a 180-pounder.

About the burliest candidate on the squad, however, is Bill Lyons, who bears the physical build of a collegian. He is a transfer from Latin school, where he was Charley Fitzgerald's pride and joy at center two years ago.

EX-LATIN BOYS ENGLISH NOW

The Latin school furnished English High with two more fine guards when Herb Callihan and Dick Good transferred to the Warren ave. school. Callihan is a 190 pounder. Good weighs 160.

Among the other prospects who have caught Ohrenberger's attention are Frank McGee (also ex-Latin School) Jack Walmsley, Chick Nazzaro—who starred for the St. Lazarus Jrs. in East Boston and now promises to be a first stringer, and others too numerous to include in this survey.

English opens its season at Groton Oct. 1, when Ohrenberger hopes to have his team whipped into shape to take a crack at Tech from the powerful private school club.

Tomorrow: Skip Sherlock talks about Hyde Park High.

'Twixt Tee and Cup

By BILL GRIMES

Miss Enid Wilson, British women's champion, is making a fine impression with the article of golf she is shooting at Salem, while preparing for the women's national championship next week. Miss Wilson is enjoying her second year as British Isles titleholder and although the modesty does not permit any success here, she will be troublesome during match play.

The annual medal play tournament of the Massachusetts State Council, Knights of Columbus, began yesterday at the Wollaston Golf Club and will continue through today. There are gross and net prizes for each of the three divisions.

Frank Craven, Dick Johnson, Tom Driscoll and Archie Forrest will represent the Arthur L. Johnson Co. in the Boston Evening American Hole-in-One Tournament next week at Franklin Field.

All of the twilight leaguers will gather at the Weston Golf Club today for the final get-together and field day exercises. Sec. John P. Bushell predicts a record-breaking turnout both in the Lame and Lazy and the Muscle Bound divisions. The orders of the day are B. Y. O. L.

Although the defending champion is playing in the Canadian women's open championship, the field in the Townsend Cup invitation, which will run through today at the Kernwood Country Club, is unusually fast and there will be a merry battle for the title, with Miss Dorothy Hunter, Albemarle, a slight favorite.

Among the more formidable teams which will compete in the annual Kittansett Club four-ball invitation are Emory P. Stratton and Alex Chisholm, Edward R. Mitton and M. Porter Johnson, Rodney W. Brown and Rod. Jr., Robert Mitten and Dr. V. H. Carpenter, G. S. Follon and C. R. Todd and J. V. R. Bright and H. B. W. Snelling.

Appears as though Johnny Igoe is trying to slip over a fast one of Bill Delaney and Arthur Crowley during the coming Boston Evening American Hole-In-One tournament, for he has been seen practicing under the tutelage of Eddie Callahan, the pro at Franklin Park, for the past few days.

Don't pass up an opportunity to win one of the six valuable prizes the Boston Evening American is offering for its Hole-in-One tourney. The deadline is midnight on Saturday for the entries. There is NO entry fee.

BRAVES READY FOR AERIAL BARRAGE

Coach Lud Wray herded his Boston Braves into a circle at the Lynn Stadium today and in his best forensic manner delivered a speech on Benny Friedman: "A Study in the Development of the Forward Pass."

The young gentlemen who are still sporting the buff and blue uniforms of the Wray-coached professional football club showed more than passing interest in their chief's words. Mr. Friedman, and company, will be their guests at Braves Field for the opening game of the season Sunday, Oct. 2.

Naturally Ben will bring his passes with him. Naturally, also, the Braves want to know all about this Friedman passing menace. For ignorance of Mr. Friedman and his methods will reflect on our Graves. It will, in fact, make them look very sick, unless they know something beforehand.

FRIEDMAN GREAT PASSER

"Benny Friedman, present company excepted, is the greatest forward passer in the world," announced Coach Wray in prefa-ce. "It is up to you heroes to smarten up your forward pass defence. The class will now begin."

And for the next two hours, Wray had his second, third and fourth string flingers rocketing pigskins into the Braves secondary defense territory like buckshot out of a 12 gauge gun.

Forward pass defense was stressed to the exhaustion point of the team and somewhat beyond. Every play was sent air mail and every Braves' back had a neck wrenching session galloping over the sod to knock down all sorts of passes.

BRAVES SET FOR BENNY

At the end of the drill, the backs were certain that anything Mr Friedman would be inclined to toss their way in the Braves-Dodgers game would not come under the head of novelty. Coach Musick, Battles, Plansky, et al, vehemently declared that Mr. Friedman would have to throw his passes out of a gun to show them anything new on the forward pass front.

An afternoon of hard scrimmage was scheduled for today, and a light workout in two sections is the routine for tomorrow. The squad continues to round into shape rapidly, Coach Wray declared, and he expects his full strength to be available in time for the meeting with the New Yorkers.

TAD'S FAVORITE INDOOR SPORTS

WILLIAMS TO FIELD MIDGET BACKFIELD

Williamstown, Mass., Sept. 22 (INS)—When rival elevens stack up against Williams this fall, microscopes and nets will be needed to locate and catch the Purple midget backfield.

140-POUND HALFBACKS

The halfbacks, Bob Markoski and Bob Bilder, touch the scales at slightly over 140 pounds. Although lacking weight, this pair make up the deficit with speed and power. They have seen plenty of reserve service during the past few years.

Another backfield man is Charlie Correale, 150-pound halfback, who held first choice for one of the berths in the big games of the little three series last fall.

Miller appears to be the certain choice to make the place of Fowle, veteran of three seasons, as the quarterback post.

Other backfield men bearing promise are Rogers and Berr. They may alternate at the fullback post with Correale being shifted to halfback.

FORTY CANDIDATES

The veteran forward line of the purple was shattered by graduation and injuries. Only three veterans returned. They are Captain Thayer, Pease and Lyon.

Steele, veteran end, has been ordered to give up the sport on advice of his physician. This left an added problem for assistant coach, "Whoops" Snively, in charge of line coaching.

Forty candidates are working two sessions a day for the opening game two weeks away.

Mat Results

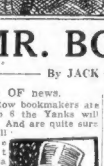
MR. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

SPEAKING OF news.

Newspaper Row bookmakers are wagering 10-to 6 the Yanks will win the series. And are quite sure Babe Ruth will be in there thumbing out his usual quota of home runs.

Jack Sharkey and Mrs. Sharkey will motor to New York Sunday to see Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker over the 15-round route at the Garden Bowl in Long Island on Monday night. Mrs. Sharkey will attend the bout with her husband. Mrs. Sharkey, however, is never at the ringside when Jack boxes. Instead, she remains alone in a hotel room and prays.



Mr. Boston

Johnny Buckley and Mrs. Buckley are also going to take in the Schmeling-Walker bout.

And also Charley Kealos (Good Time Charley to you), Louis Block, who was a good boxer back in the days of Kid Broad, George (Kid) Lee and Miss Lee, and a lot of other fans who like to be where the sports bombs are bursting. In addition to the bout-being a good take in, it puts one on the spot for the world's series which opens in New York next Wednesday.

Murphy back in harness

BILLY MURPHY of Lowell is polishing up his fistic harness. Not to stage a come back, but just so as to help condition Andy Callahan for his New England welterweight title bout with Lou Brouillard at the Boston Garden on October 7. Murphy, like Brouillard, is a southpaw. And is very smart in the ring. Remember Billy's two great fights with Al Mello?

Jack Sharkey has not made any public selection, but I understand he believes Max Schmeling will beat Mickey Walker and that he will face the German in a title defense battle next June.

Ed Carroll, Dan Carroll's brother who was nominated for the Senate from South Boston, used to knock 'em cold with right hand punches when he was in the amateurs. And apparently carried the old sock right into the political arena.

McCoy at Hyannis

FRANK DELLAMANO tells me he will close his wrestling season at Hyannis tomorrow night with a bout between "Bibber" McCoy and Reggie Sisk. I'll wager a hat on McCoy to win. Bibber is in oldtime form once more.

Gus Sonnenberg will come to Boston to finish his training for his finish wrestling bout, best two falls out of three, with "Gentleman" Jack Washburn, which will be held at the Boston Garden on September 30. The old Dynamiter has a tough battle on his hands and wants to be in the best possible condition.

I understand the wrestling rules will be tossed right out of the window when Sonny and Washburn swing into action.

The Lou Brouillard fistic program calls for a bout a month during the indoor season. Morris Lemoine believing in the old adage about making hay while the sun shines. Brouillard is one fighter who gives the cash customers a run for their money.

Dennis Shea telling folks along Washington at that the football Braves will furnish Boston fans with some real thrills this Fall. Big fellows who know the game make up the lineup of the local team. Incidentally Shea believes that pro football will click here.

N. H. WILDCATS FACE HARDEST SCHEDULE

By DAVID F. KILEY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

Durham, N. H., Sept. 22 (INS)—The New Hampshire Wildcats, 75 strong today are sharpening their claws for their strongest schedule in years which includes both Harvard and Dartmouth.

Besides University of New Hampshire must defend her New England small college championship which she won last fall with a veteran outfit under the direction of Head Coach William H. Cowell.

This eleven has been depleted of nearly all its stars by graduation, which means that Cowell must weld practically an entire new first team. However, he is well stocked for seasoned material.

11 REGULARS GONE

Among the regulars lost were Howard Hanley, end; Jim Hayes, center; Harold Hawkins, tackle; Theofel Kazeenas and John Roche, guards; Charles Wilson, tackle; Richard Eustis, Harry Wood, Henry Lane, and the Black twins, James and Raymond, all backfield men.

Returning lettermen in the line include Arthur Learmonth, tackle; Frank Knox, end; Virgilio Corti, guard; Donald Dunnan, center; George Bachelier, guard, and Charles Dolloff center.

In the backfield, Cowell is hard hit for quarterback material. Only Charles Graffman, third string signal barker last fall, is available.

OPEN OCT. 1

University of New Hampshire opens against Boston University on October 1, and the week following returns to Cambridge to meet Harvard University, October 8. Maine Vermont and Lowell Textile follow on successive Saturdays at the Wildcats' lair in Durham. On November 5 New Hampshire journeys to Hanover to meet Dartmouth and the following Saturday, November 12, hop to Springfield, Mass., to meet Springfield College. They close their season on November 19 against Connecticut State.

Jack Sharkey Boxes at Portland Oct. 10

Jack Sharkey, world's heavyweight champion, has been signed by Johnny Buckley to box four two-minute rounds at a boxing show to be held at Portland on Oct. 10. It is also likely that Sharkey will box for exhibition contests in Holyoke and Boston.

TUFTS CENTER HEADED FOR MINISTRY

Famous in 1930 for its "fighting parson," Gene Tobey of Everett, at center, the Tufts line is to have another sky pilot for center this year in the person of John Queen Parkhurst.

Parkhurst is the leading candidate for center, and a veteran of two years' standing. His halls from Hardwick, Mass. He has transferred from the Engineering school to the Theological department, and will begin his studies for a doctor of divinity degree on next Tuesday.

PARKHURST CINCHES JOB

A new candidate for center is reporting this morning. Bob Russell of Medford, who two years ago made the first varsity squad in his sophomore year, has returned to college after a year's absence and will be Parkhurst's understudy throughout the season.

Russell is six feet tall and weighs about 185. During much of his year's absence he did heavy work on a truck and is in the best of condition as he returns to the squad.

THREE HAVE HURT KNEES

Walter Froelich at wingback and Roberti at end are still out because of knee injuries, while Sam Foxx has taken Ed Batchelder's place as Team A tackle because of a knee injury to the latter, making a total of three men out because of damaged knees.

The backfield consisting of Sammy Clayman, quarter; Bud Uanna and Bill Staffon at wings, and Kenneth Clark at full, seems set now, with Bill Staffon being the outstanding man.

The only other change is at guard, where Jack McGonagle has taken Bump Spaulding's position temporarily.

BOSTON BOYS ON HUSKY TEAM

Paul Bratenas, Machanles, le; Sumner Shane, English, lt; Nathan Bolse, English, lg; Albert Komich, South Boston, c; Henry Abbinazese, Mechanics, rg; Ralph Raymond, English, rt; Arthur Foster, Commerce, re; Samuel Gordon, Dorchester, q; Charles Betgamini, English, hb; Arthur Quigley, Boston Latin, hb, and Allan Hanasson, Mechanics, fb. All have had considerable experience in high school football.

So What?

By JOE MOONEY

One more postponement and they'll be rolling that Schmeling-Walker fight the Hang-Over of the Century.

Mickey just got over his boils in time. Another day of waiting and he'd have bunions from just sitting around.

How do you think Schmeling will look with a beard?

Still, time works wonders. They say now that during the intermission Max Baer's waschund has grown up to be an airedale.

And it works out better for the customers. You see the fight and then you can go skating until they turn on the lights.

KIN OF WALKER ACCUSED AGAIN

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—Two new charges were added today to the eight already filed against Dr. William H. Walker, brother of the former mayor, and four other physicians, when a hearing was resumed before the medical grievance committee of the State Board of Regents.

The charges against the five physicians were brought by the city affairs committee and resulted from testimony given at hearings before the Hofstadter legislative committee. They charged numerous cases of fee splitting and padded bills in connection with compensation cases for city employes.

Instalment Tax Plan Wipes Out City Red Ink

Bainbridge, Ga., Sept. 22 (AP)—The tale of this city was written in red ink until city fathers started paying bills with care and collecting taxes on the instalment plan.

It was necessary in 1929, to borrow $24,000 to run the government. So an economy program was ordered and the next year only $18,000 was borrowed. Last year Bainbridge got $4900 in a loan and this year no money was borrowed.

The tax rate was cut five mills. Tax payers were unable to pay promptly so an instalment plan was started.

HOOVER TREND IN MAINE

By COLE MORGAN

Washington, Sept. 22 (US)—The Democratic jubilation over the Maine victory last week may be a bit premature insofar as the November election is concerned.

There is still one-tenth of the Maine electorate to be heard from and that tenth may turn the state back to the Republican fold.

HOOVER GAINS SHOWN

Returns in the nationwide presidential poll of the Boston Evening American in co-operation with all the other Hearst morning, evening and Sunday papers in the United States do not give substantial encouragement to Democratic prospects in November in the down East state.

Today 277 new ballots, mailed by voters since last week's election, were tabulated. They show a decided preponderance for President Hoover. He drew 192 to Governor Roosevelt's 85. Added to previous returns from the state, Hoover now shows a majority of 543 out of 2171 ballots recorded from Maine.

Statistics show that as a rule the Republican presidential candidate in November polls a substantially heavier vote than the Republican candidate for governor does in September with the Democratic presidential vote not increasing in the same proportion as that of the Democratic gubernatorial vote.

G. O. P. DRIVE SPEEDED

The Maine vote on September 12 was approximately 25,000 under the 281,000 cast for President in 1928. At the same time the Democratic vote for governor last week exceeded by more than 10,000 the peak Democratic vote ever polled in the state.

The margin by which the Democrats won the governorship was only one-half of one per cent, the Democrats polling 50.25 and the Republicans 49.75.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement don't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, also often head is all beclouded. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, famous when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25¢ at all stores. © 1932 C. M. Co.

SO. BOSTON GUNMAN HUNTED IN VOTE WAR

THIS IS LIFE

THERE'S A LIGHTER SIDE THAT GIVES POLITICS A SAVING GRACE

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

R. E. ROGERS

IN THE CURRENT "NATION," Mr. Oswald Garrison Villard's private house-organ of liberalism, Morrie Ryskind has an article in which he plays amusingly with the cautiousness of the American press in making statements about people who might possibly be thin-skinned. Morrie Ryskind, you will remember, is the co-author of the political travesty "Of Thee I Sing," which won the Pulitzer Prize this year. He has also written what purports to be the private diary of a President, which is very funny and very irreverent.

In this article he is letting his imagination play over that secret session, in which Mr. Garner called upon Mr. Smith at his office in the Empire State Building and about which both parties were pretty non-committal. He sets his scene as follows:

"The following is an alleged transcript of the notes taken by an alleged stenographer in alleged shorthand, of an alleged conversation alleged to have taken place at an alleged meeting between two alleged statesmen who shall be nameless. How it came into my hands would make an interesting story in itself, if I could only think of it.

"Al" Proves He Is Better Salesman

Suffice to say that after considerable difficulty—due to the fact that I do not know shorthand—I succeeded in decoding the message and hereby offer it for what it is worth. No reasonable offer refused. The scene is the office of Mr.—let us say—Smith. A secretary announces a Mr.—let us say—Garner."

And the irrepressible Ryskind goes on to a really very funny scene in which Mr. Smith breaks down Mr. Garner's sales resistance and makes him subscribe to "The Outlook," in spite of Mr. Garner's diffident insistence that he is taking all the magazines he can afford, having already subscribed to "Better Babies," which, you will remember, is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's new editorial venture.

So Mr. Garner signs on the dotted line and Mr. Smith gives him a campaign cigar which explodes and blows him out of the building, while Mr. Smith Muses audibly "say, I wonder if Mc-Adoo smokes!"

One of the things that makes this campaign bearable is the increasing disposition on the part of the American litterateurs to kid the participants in it. Not the professional political writers. They are always serious and frequently wrong. Indeed, some university or other which has been investigating straw votes has come to the conclusion that the political writer ranks third in the accuracy of his prognostications. The Pois come second and the large expensive straw ballot comes first. Specifically, the Hearst straw ballot of 1928 is praised as being almost 100 per cent accurate, better than even the highly ballyhooed Literary Digest poll.

Perhaps it would be better if the political expert were to kid a little. But if he doesn't, the writing boys on the side-lines will do it for him. Witness Mr. Ryskind and Mr. Kaufmann. Witness the anonymous or semi-anonymous authors of the various razzes that have been written about Washington celebrities, "The Mirrors of Washington," "The Merry Go Round," and "More Merry Go Round," which wrap a pill of considerable satiric bitterness in the jelly of genial and not so genial kidding

Barbs Sharpened by Truth

Witness the Gridiron Club at Washington, at which the capital correspondents under the safe mantle of anonymity and the guarantee that there shall be no publicity, play tag with the administration. It is doubtful whether any of the great really enjoy it. It is often too pointed and too truthful. But they have to take it and like it—or pretend to like it. Wonder if the thin-skinned Mr. Hoover really does.

Out west there is a perfect subject for this type of literature, the gentleman who is referred to even by the A. P. as the "goat-gland specialist." He is Dr. J. R. Brinkley of Kansas, who seems to have an excellent chance of being the next governor of the state.

There is nothing comical per se in the idea of a medico as politician. Dr. Copeland of New York has made a pretty good Senator without giving up completely his interests as a physician and an expert in public health. But Dr. Brinkley is not loved by his own profession.

A few years ago he opened a hospital in Kansas for the treatment of men's ailments by goat gland transplantation. His fellow physicians charged that he was not an "ethical" practitioner and his diploma was questioned. The Kansas medical board took away his license. He had opened a radio station, which had an enormous following. It was charged that he prescribed by mail and over the radio and was running a chain of drug-stores for prescriptions.

Two years ago he ran for governor to "vindicate" himself, like Jimmy Walker and Pa Ferguson and so many others. He lost by a slight margin. Then the Federal Radio Commission took his radio station away from him. There were rumors that he intended to open another with high voltage just over the border in Mexico, to blanket the Middle West and South. My impression is that that scheme didn't jell.

But now he is running for governor again. He constantly uses the radio station he formerly owned and supplements it by a big truck which he calls "Ammunition Train, No. 1." and gives an old-fashioned open air medicine-show entertainment with a radio favorite called "the singing cowboy." And he advertises in the papers like the late Tom Lawson.

Two years ago he polled more votes than William Allen White, the best-known and the most respected Kansan in public life. This year he will probably win the governorship. The farmers, who don't know what they want but don't like what they've got, are solidly behind him.

Further West another political neophyte beat the famous Senator Smith Brookhart with a simple but effective program—radio broadcasts and home-made chicken dinners. He owns his own radio station and a big vegetable and chicken farm. He matched his chicken dinners against Senator Brookhart's "baloney" and won.

The chances are that Dr. Brinkley will join that extraordinary group of amateur politicians whom the direct primaries and the radio and hard times and the American love for a free show have boosted to high political position. Ma Ferguson (and behind her the shade of Pa, disbarred forever from holding office in Texas); Senator Huey (Kingfish) Long, Governor Alfalfa Bill Murray, that former mayor of Chicago whose name I forget, the former mayor of Newburyport, and probably many others I have never heard of, but who bloom in out of the way places.

Well, I suppose that is what democracy means. But I should like to listen in on a conversation in the Elysian Fields, as the shades of the great organization politicians of the past wonder what in—well anyway, what politics has come to. Henry Cabot Lodge, for instance, and Boies Penrose, and Aldrich, and Murray Crane, and Tom Platt, and Marcus Alonzo Hana in his dollar-marked suit. One can guess at what they would say, but one could not hope to reproduce the poetry and pungency of their language

PRICE TOOK HIS SISTER'S CASH OUT OF BANK

Ex-Director of Medford Trust Says He Withdrew Money and Sold Stock Before Closure

Abel S. Price, of Forest st., Medford, a defendant director in the Medford Trust Co. case, admitted today on the witness stand that he withdrew $6500 from the bank on his sister's account six days before the institution closed its doors.

The suit is brought by Bank Commissioner Arthur Guy against Edwin F. McKnight, president, his wife and 21 other directors of the closed bank, to hold them responsible for losses sustained.

After withdrawing the money Price said there was a balance of $90. He said he was trustee of his sister's account.

SELLS HIS OWN STOCK

Price also admitted that he sold his stock in the bank some time before it closed, but said that at the time he thought the bank was in good condition.

Witness declared he tried on two occasions to resign by mail from the board but the resignations didn't take. He resigned later however, he said, but could not explain why his resignation did not appear on the books of the bank.

Pressed on the question by Robert T. Bushnell, representing the bank commissioner, Price said that the day after he mailed the resignation McKnight called him on the telephone, and asked him not to resign.

McKnight told him, witness said, that a few days before another director had resigned and if no Price also quit it might look bad and arouse suspicion.

HIS VOTES UNRECORDED

Price said he voted against some loans, and also against a dividend in 1931. Bushnell brought up the record of the bank and asked why his negative vote was not recorded. Price replied that he did not think opposition votes were recorded in the minutes of the meetings.

Asked what factors he took into consideration when passing on construction loans, witness replied that he considered cost of construction and location.

POLICE ACT TO BLOCK MORE BLOODSHED

Shooting in Political Club Follows Fiery Carroll-Twohig Campaign for Senate

Outbreak of war between rival election gangs in South Boston as an aftermath of bitter political contests in the primary was being guarded against by police today following a shooting in a club in the district last night.

William Foley, 32, of Columbia rd., South Boston, narrowly escaped death in the shooting.

Foley is being treated for a scalp wound at Carney hospital and two others are being held for questioning by police following the shooting, which police declare was the aftermath of a bitter political contest at the Suffolk A. C. Physicians said Foley's injury was not serious.

Immediately after the shooting police of the Athens st. and City Point station, declared they would act to put today in an drive to rid the district of gangs.

THREE SHOTS FIRED

Held at City Point station are William Hamilton, 26, of West Fifth st., and Frank Karlonas, of West Third st.

Hamilton was taken into custody after three shots had been fired by a patrolman who saw him running from the scene. Karonas was taken into custody when he went to the station to ask the reason for Hamilton's arrest.

Police learned that several men had gone to the club, which had been used as campaign headquarters by Edward Carroll, victor over James J. Twohig for the Democratic nomination for the State Senate, at 1 National st. near Perkins on South Boston.

When they rang the doorbell they opened a peephole to see who was outside. Stunned with fear they were fired through the hole, one striking Foley in the head. A crowd quickly gathered but the assailants made their escape.

WANTED ON ATTACK

Patrolman Jerome Crowley, who Hamilton running a short distance from the scene. He followed him and the officer fired three shots before overtaking him.

It was learned that he was being sought by police for questioning in connection with the assault on a Roxbury girl in Arlington on Friday night.

"True love's the gift which God has given
It is not fantasy's hot fire
Whose wishes, soon as granted, fly
It liveth not in fierce desire
With dead desire it doth not die
It is the secret sympathy
The silver link, the silken tie
Which heart to heart, and mind to mind
In body and in soul can bind."

Oranges for Tasty New Dishes

By MARTHA LEE

LAST SATURDAY three members of the Lee family came home bearing oranges among their weekend shopping purses, all evidently determined not to fall short of their quota of citrus fruit.

Baked Orange Relish

(Serves 6-8)

2 large oranges
1 or 1 sliced canned pineapple
1 tsp. cinnamon
6 whole cloves
¼ tsp. nutmeg
½ cup pineapple juice
1-3 cup sugar
1 tsp. lemon juice

Slice oranges thin, using skin and pulp. Arrange in baking dish with alternate layers of pineapple slices. Add spices and sugar to pineapple juice and lemon juice and pour over fruit. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for 1 to 2 hours.

Orange Nut Biscuits

(Makes 18 medium-sized biscuits.)

4 tsps. baking powder
1 tsp. salt.
½ cup finely chopped nuts
1 egg
Orange juice.
1 tbsp. orange marmalade
¼ cup shortening

Sift dry ingredients together. Cut in shortening. Add nuts. Beat egg, pour into measuring cup and add enough orange juice to make 2/3 cup. Combine with dry ingredients and add marmalade. Roll out dough on slightly floured board. Cut and bake in hot oven, 375 deg. F. for 10 to 15 minutes.

Orange Frosting

1 tsp. grated orange rind
1 egg white
3 tbsps. orange juice
½ tsp. lemon juice
Sprinkling of salt

Put sugar, orange and lemon juice in upper part of double boiler and stir with egg white until thoroughly mixed. Place over boiling water and beat with rotary egg beater until mixture will stand in peaks. Remove from fire and add salt. Beat thoroughly and spread on cake.

Daily True Story

"There's Many a Slip"

THE ROBBERY of the Perriton Shop on a fashionable uptown thoroughfare was acknowledged to be one of the boldest in years.

The loss was placed at over a hundred thousand dollars and four months, the crime in the safe had not been touched.

Marcia Newsome, attracted by the crowd and also by the excitement that she could detect in the two men who had gone to the office of Mr. Charles Farnham, young Perriton's attorney.

He changed engaged basket her many questions and making a date to meet her the next day, sent her hurriedly upon the errand on the photographs.

TWO WEEKS LATER

A few weeks later Farnham called Marcia on the phone and asked if she would be free that evening.

He helped her into a taxi and on the way to the East Side explained his views. They were on the verge of the depot as from headquarters. Jake had got the right hints.

"But how long will I have to wait?" asked Marcia.

Only a few minutes if they follow their usual customs. They seem to be creatures of habit. I'll say about this time Tom Gerrity is that's the detective will give us the tip.

Out of the doorway came Gerrity and Mitchell's face went white. Gerrity leaped off after him.

Presently he returned and waved to them. O.K. sign. Farnham ran to the side.

Mitchell, Mr. Farnham waved and then the strange man and the police under arrest. Gerrity and Farnham joined the prisoners in the small car.

"Why, we were right in this room at the very moment you said you think we were in front of Perriton's."

FARHAM ROSE

"Pleased," said Farham.

"Exact," replied the older of the two. "There was a singer named Farrell on the radio that night—look at the papers and you'll see—she sang a new number called 'Meet Again.'"

Farham rose—"Well Tom, he said, 'I'll beat it out and get a paper—I want to check up on that song.'

It was there all right. He called up Marcia at. I guess those birds have got an unpleasant habit of eat and find her about the song.

To his surprise her cheek took on a rosy appearance. But Cora, didn't sing that day—she had a record was announced at the last minute.

Farnham went back to the flat with the paper.

"Tom," said Farham, "slip the bracelets on them—we'll take 'em downtown—you see that song wasn't sung that day at all."

And the fact that it wasn't sung accounted for the final breakdown of the jokers and the spilling of the reward. Three was among the birds, has pa, and Marcia.

She called Farham. You remember the name of that song?" she asked.

"Do I," he answered. "It was 'Meet Me Again' wasn't it?"

"Well" she laughed, "if you will I'll treat you to a dinner."

WHY WORRY

She Loves Him Though He Is a Flirt

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am 18 years old and am going with a boy of 21. We hoped to be one engaged this December. We had a quarrel, for which he blame me. He doesn't call any more and I'm broken hearted because we were engaged. Here the trouble. He was supposed to bring a couple of girls to a dance one evening and I asked him to bring two girls. He brought one girl and left me to entertain the other. I was angry. But I did not show him that I was angry. I was polite to both girls. Please advise me what to do to get him back. I love him very much.

UNHAPPY

Dear Unhappy: I hope by the time you read this you have forgotten him. He is not the kind of boy you want to marry. He is selfish and inconsiderate. He has no manners and only half a mind. Please don't write to me again. Tell me what you have done.

Doesn't Want to Live With Mother

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

I am over 20 years of age and I am engaged to a girl of 20. My mother has never said anything against my engagement or anything against the girl but I know she feels very blue about it. I have been with a small salary. I know nothing about housekeeping. Mother has offered to let us live with her but I don't want to. I want a flat with my wife and no boarding. Do you think I am foolish? How can anything be done? M. J. B.

"MARY FAITH"

How a Fascinating Heroine Met Old Problems in a New Way.---By the Author of "The Flapper Wife," Etc

By BEATRICE BURTON

She turned away from Mary Faith and walked up to his chair

"Get up, Larry," she said to him, "and dance with me"

Claire put both of her arms around Kim and closed her eyes as they danced. She was a tiny girl and her head rested at his shoulder. It looked very much against the dark blue of his coat.

Sitting in a corner of the Davenport watching her, Mary Faith began to feel dull and uncomfortable and out of place. She knew that she had nothing in common with these friends of Kim's. She had told the truth when she said that she would be very ill at ease in the world of which Claire was a part.

Relief to Sit and Talk

"What she meant was that I'm slow and narrow-minded," Mary Faith said to herself. "But if I am so what am I? Kim must find me so."

In the days of their engagement Kim had never been much of a one for card games. Certainly he never had played cards for money.

"What are you looking so melancholy about, Mary Faith?" Jack Maldon came in from the kitchen with a tray of ice and glasses and set it on the mantelshelf.

"Aren't we going to play bridge?" he asked, and dropped down beside her on the sofa.

"No, I don't play cards on Sunday . . . I'm sorry."

Mary Faith shook her head and sent him a troubled apologetic smile. "I don't even dance on Sundays, Jack. I'm afraid I'm a terrible spoil-sport."

"No," he said gravely, "I think you're all right . . . I get a little tired of doing things all the time, myself. It's a relief just to sit and talk and look at the fire sometimes, isn't it? Even if it's just gas logs."

At ten o'clock Kim and Mary Faith went home.

"Well, what do you think of the Maldons?" Kim asked as soon as they were out of the house.

Aunt Ella Departs

She was never going to know Kim's sister and wife, Claire Maldon, and want it ever when she was with her. She was going to a concert at the Symphony Hall tomorrow night and Kim had asked her to go with him.

"I'm doing it a-purpose," she told Mary Faith in her sharp kindly way. "If Amelia has to depend on you to take care of her for a few days she won't be so high-and-mighty with you. You and she will get to be pretty good friends if there's nobody but the two of you in the house all day—so I'll just move myself out of the way and give you a try."

What Aunt Ella lacked in English she made up for in good old common sense.

All that week Mary Faith took care of Mr. Farrell. She made her beef broth and milk toast and gave her the medicine that Dr. Thatcher prescribed for her.

Popular Doctor

"He's a widower," Mrs. Farrell told her, "and there are that half the nurses in town have their caps set for him. But I doubt that he'll ever marry again—and if he does it'll be some woman his own age he'll pick, I imagine."

Every morning, when she was expecting him, she would sit up in bed, brushing her thick hair waiting for him to read in a voice that was very low and gentle to her, as Mary Faith came into the room and found her rubbing violet water into the palms of her hand.

"Please don't get it into your hair because the doctor's coming," she said that I'm fixing myself up said sharply. "I just happen to like a little perfume now and then. It makes the air in a room seem so fresh."

On Friday Dr. Thatcher told her that she was so much better she couldn't have to come to see her any more and on Saturday she got out of bed.

Mary Faith went for her trunks and her cedar chest that afternoon and she unpacked them while Mrs. Farrell sat on the living-room couch and showed her where to hang the Simon etching and the snowshoes.

"I thought my mother would raise Cain when you brought your things into the house," Kim said the next morning when Mary Faith brought him his coffee. "She would have, too, if you hadn't asked her where to put everything and kidded her along the way you did."

"I wasn't kidding her, Kim. I just wanted her to feel that she and I are partners. Women work together in offices without quarreling and there's no reason why they shouldn't do it in houses. You'll see that she and I will get along all right, if you just give us time."

Mrs. Farrell said that she felt shaky after her illness, and she spent most of the next week reading the books that Mary Faith had bought from Mrs. Puckett's. She

Looking for Leaders

I saw the letter which the Republicans sent out with the Who's Who ballot. It was the wrong kind of letter. It said that the [illegible] Americans were earnestly looking toward their leaders for guidance in these difficult times. Words to that effect. I felt skeptical. The American people having looked for three and a half years [illegible] for guidance [illegible] promised, [illegible] the American people are looking for guidance to those who are not responsible for the errors of the past; and especially to those who do not insist that they were blameless in the past and did the best they could in a crisis for which they weren't at all responsible.

So that, in the end, the solution of the liquor problem is: free liquor [illegible] have any income [illegible] for profit [illegible] sure each [illegible]

Tax the Sober

To pay for the liquor consumed at free government dispensaries, [illegible] that the tax [illegible] drinkers have paid [illegible] the drunkard's dime has sent the sober man's child to school. Free liquor would [illegible] the saloon [illegible] son, every one seems anxious to promise. If liquor is available at government offices, and is free, it will also be available at drug stores (there's a new idea), pool rooms, hat shops, and filling stations; it will be on the counter of every store in every block in every city. Who would start a saloon against this competition?

Among other things, free liquor would put an end to drunkenness. That, however, is a prophecy which I cannot prove at the moment. And do not need to; because even if it were proved, no one would follow my banner for free liquor. No one cares enough about liquor to go [illegible]

THE VOICE OF Broadway

Just the other week, you may recall, I pointed out the plight of the little snowbirds of town, out of work, locked out of their hotel rooms for non-payment of rent—homeless, destitute, desperate. AROUND THE THEATERS By Nicholas Young

'Green Pastures' Players Turn to Baseball for Their Recreation

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

There is versatility as well as human kindness tucked away in the hearts of the very busy Negroes who make up the working forces of "The Green Pastures." By the play's record you must know that, by any measure, the boys and girls back stage are good actors and splendid singers. An attendance at a single performance settles this without the arching of an eyebrow. But hidden back of the brilliantly sung spirituals and the nightly choices of those people who move so solemnly through the scenes of the Creation and the centuries that comprise the Old Testament, there are emotions which belong strictly to this age and these perilous times.

Prompt the most interesting outbreak, that may be cited to go against the theory is not only a new one but a demand upon the management that "The Green Pastures" must have a baseball team. A little late in the season, you must admit, but this can be overlooked when it is considered that from May until September, when the play opened at the Colonial the dusky athletes were at Beach Haven on summer pastimes of their own. It appears now that he of his insidious germ has taken root and that Adam, Mose, Cain, Joshua and all the rest of the boys in the Old Testament, if not actually to take the playing field are about to crowd the side lines and indulge in slight speculations of peculiar racial interest.

All this leads to the news of a ball game on Sunday between "The Green Pastures" and the Philadelphia Giants, a colored team of considerable prowess which has been playing all through the summer at warm New England points where ample guarantees have been accepted as good news. There is no secret that the Philadelphia Giants have made an honest racket out of their skill and their color. That, however, does not chill the ardor of the gentlemen of "The Green Pastures," who, in spite of the certain ecclesiastical aspects of their drama, are not averse to a scrimmage with other colored gentlemen next Sunday at Lincoln Park in South Boston.

As it turns out the actors are not lacking in baseball talent. Jimmy Baxter, one time pitcher for the Cuban clubs and has the reputation of counting respectably upon Can the Sash as Green Pastures' Heaven for the day as captain of the team. Bill [illegible] McDonald best known to Cub fans who once played for the Rich mond Giants, all active in the part-time baseball. For the Philadelphians, a part of the play is sponsored by a colored theatrical in the eastern states.

Rough words appeared on the sporting page of the Herald. The Green Pastures' team may be out of place to call attention to the fact that on the 20th ult. United as humanity. Really the ball game on Sunday there will be another celebration in which Gabriel the Lord and Aaron will participate. It will be a cast of 60 members of The Green Pastures company to the Sox field at Dudley Street, where an afternoon of entertainment will be staged in behalf of the Old Folks' Home. Dr. Griswold

Dr. G. Hubert Griswold, now making his debut at the Lyric Theatre, was born in Vermont of old Yankee stock. He attended the public schools in Rutland and was graduated from the Middle Class [illegible] in Wesleyan University. A student of psychology, he early took up the study of hypnotism and has since been practicing it. For the past 20 years he has resided in Cambridge. When asked about his genealogy he smilingly remarked, "I suppose the reason I'm interested in the occult is because I'm descended from witchcraft. He was hired to the stage by his good friend, Professor Albert Evans, of Harvard.

Bowdoin Theater

The Bowdoin Square Theatre this week-end starts its season with a double feature picture program. The first picture is "Stranger in Town," with Frank Morgan, Una Merkel and Walter Connolly. The second picture is "Drifting Souls," with John Gilbert, Leila Hyams and Hobart Bosworth. Stage shows will be presented Friday and Saturday nights.

Exeter Theater

George Jessel, John Boles and Fifi D'Orsay, in Hollywood, Speaks, ends on Saturday and Louise Fazenda in "Racing Youth" are the attractions for the remainder of the week at the Exeter.

Patrons Flock in When Screen Sings a Saga

The film public is a conscientious. Meaning that patronage are keen for screen class. Nicholas Schenck contends that there is no ill in the motion picture industry that good pictures cannot cure, still holds. "Grand Hotel," is a proof in point. This film ran eight weeks downtown, and now on a return booking, has done so well for Loew's State that the house is holding it over for a second week.

NEW LOW-PRICE CAR BY CONTINENTAL MOTORS

By B. C. FORBES

Detroit, Sept. 22—Big news for Michigan and interesting news for the country.

I learn authoritatively that the Continental Motors Corporation, which has built the motors for 90 per cent of all the 600 automobile companies born in America during the last 30 years, is ready to enter the car manufacturing field on a big scale and with an entirely novel machine

The price, I hear unofficially, will be lower than that of any full-sized car now on the market.

This is certain to bring highly interesting developments in the lowest-priced field.

Continental has been famous almost since the start of the automobile industry for its Red Seal Motor, of which it has supplied upwards of three and a half million to American and European motor car manufacturers. Its very intimate contacts with the engineers and other executives of so many producers have yielded a unique accumulation of experience.

President W. R. Angel began planning a long time ago to launch a complete car in a price class by itself, whenever conditions became ideal, wherever the American people became properly endowed with a sense of thrift, economy, frugality. Early this year he acquired the Van-Ikle Company. He arranged over the Davis, which is being developed promisingly.

Fred L. Rockleman will be in charge of sales.

Headquarters for production of Continental's novel car will be Muskegon, but the enterprise means important additional activities at the Detroit plant. Within a few months it is expected that thousands of workers will be busy turning out the new car.

The entire industry will now await with intense interest official confirmation of this news by Mr. Angel.

R. F. C. Loan Applications Dwindle

I have just talked with Wilson W. Mills, whom President Hoover wanted to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in succession to Mr. Dawes. He is an outstandingly able business man of affairs, an eminent lawyer, who turned banker only recently. He is chairman of the First National Bank, a half-billion dollar institution

Here is the best news he gave me in behalf of the loan division of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Applications to it for loans have dwindled to almost the vanishing point.

That conveys more briefly and emphatically than anything else could how greatly conditions have recovered financially in this part of the country.

It must not be assumed, however, that everything in the garden is now lovely. It isn't. What it does mean is that there has been appreciably betterment in what were very unsatisfactory conditions.

Isn't that something?

Watch Ford for Surprise

Henry Ford once again has Detroit guessing. Rumor has it that he is trying to evolve something in the nature of a surprise. Ford plants are not, you are daily told, going to be shut and Mr. Ford intends to do something about it in an effort to regain his old place in the automotive sun.

This year again he is running second.

PRICE CHANGES ARE MODERATE IN WALL ST.

New York, Sept. 22 — Price changes were moderate for most issues in an erratic session of the New York Stock Exchange today.

Changes in trends were frequent. Early nervous fluctuations gave way first to a rally, and then to a decline which carried many issues off 1 to 4 points, with U. S. Steel preferred the weak spot. Selling orders then dried up and the market hardened.

STEELS UNDER PRESSURE

The steels were under pressure most of the session, which was considered natural, in view of their hectic rise for a maximum of as much as 11 points yesterday. The carriers showed signs of buoyancy even when the rest of the list was subjected to selling.

Losses in the final hour were mostly around a point, although U. S. Steel issues were weaker, with the common down over 2 and the preferred off around 5 points.

Issues selling off a point or so were Woolworth, Westinghouse Electric, American Telephone, American Smelting, Bethlehem, J. I. Case, Douglas Aircraft and Union Pacific.

Atchison at the same time was up a point, along with Larkawanna. Allied Chemical sagged over 3 points.

In the early rally, later cancelled for a time, such rails as Atchison, Union Pacific, New Haven and New York Central swung up 1 to 2 points.

Public Utility stocks appeared somewhat impervious, at the opening, to the rapidly shifting direction of price movements elsewhere but later yielded.

Bank clearings for the week, announced today, showed a gain of more than seasonal gain. Wholesale food price index was moved off a shade.

CARLOADINGS FIGURES

The first railroads to issue carloading reports for the week ended Sept. 17 show gains of around 17 to 18 per cent over the preceding week. New York Central reported 40,743 cars against 32,718, up 24 per cent.

On the basis of early returns it was calculated that the next weekly statement, out Saturday, substantially exceeding the figures for the week before Labor Day, when loadings totaled 550,727 cars.

With the approach of tomorrow's meeting of Eastern Trunk Line railroad heads, there was much conjecture as to the probable outcome of efforts to secure a settlement. Some observers anticipate greater hope for an agreement was expressed today in advance of previous meetings.

However, Wall Street was inclined to a little alarm over the cause of past conflicts among railroad executives who for more than a decade have shown sharp variations of opinion on this important question.

The statement of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. that pressure for loans had slackened appreciably in the past two months was favorably received. Current requests for loans are being received. It was thin an announcement that is about one-half of the huge volume of funds requested from Feo. 1 to July 31.

SPECTATOR

Says:

The stock market has apparently given confirmation of another uptrend, and emphatically, too. Profit-taking would be natural in view of the way stocks are jumping ahead, and it would be well not to chase the market up. Wall Street is bullish again, and this means stocks will be bought on reactions, but don't let your enthusiasm run away with you.

Steel Business

The spurt in the steel shares was accompanied by further reports of sizeable business pending. These R. F. C. work loans to the rails, for example, all involve a lot of steel.

Rails Respond

The rails are in the unique position of having shown everyone rooting for them and praying for their speedy recovery.

So far they are responding nobly, and are only in the market, for car loadings are also making a steadily better showing. . . . This augurs well a gain for Saturday's report.

There has been further Canadian and English buying in Canadian Pacific. The royal commission report was constructive, even though it disappointed Bill Street who is coming out for unification of both roads across the border.

Here and There

Good buying has been coming into Bendix. This said Cutten may do things in the stock.

The subsidiary stocks are spoken of again now that the weather has been having a bite to it . . . The Air Reduction issue and U. S. Alcohol crowd are understood to be quite bullish.

Insiders have been picking up Gillette.

The seasonal factor is looming larger in certain groups. For example, good things are heard on the movie stocks, with reports Loew's may start things going there and with Pathe A singled out as the lower-priced group.

SUPPRESSED DESIRES
No. 987756

I'd like to have a trumpet,
A trumpet for my ear.
A long and shiny trumpet—
But not to make me hear!

With crackers of the noisome pun
I would have sport, I would have fun,
After they once had cracked the crack,
I'd smile sedately, settle back,
And place my trumpet to my ear
To gurgle very sweetly: "What was that? I didn't hear."

With boxos who retold the plots
Of cinemas I would have lots
Of fun. After they'd finished half
The weary tale, I'd grimly laugh,
And place my trumpet to my ear
To gurgle very sweetly: "What was that? I didn't hear."

I'd ask it once. I'd ask it twice.
I'd make the boob repeat it thrice.
I'd make him keep repeating it
I'd benefit humanity.
I'd make him keep repeating it
Till he had lost his sanity.
I'd like to have a trumpet,

A trumpet for my ear,
A long and shiny trumpet;
But not to help me hear.

—Baron Soil.

RADIO ODDS AND ENDS

Standard Time Change Due Sunday

By N. F. T.

Daylight Saving Time schedules are changing this coming Sunday, Air activity in Eastern studios will therefore be altered accordingly. Present program plans call for features to be heard at "sun time" hours from that day on through the 1932-33 winter months.

SCREEN STAR SPECIALTY

Tonight, at the gateway of tomorrow, or when the clock strikes 12, an unusual offering comes over from the far West during that "Hollywood on the Air" presentation (WBZ) staged there in the California movie metropolis. It's to be a typical Hollywood dinner party. Screen stars who have accepted invitations to be present and heard are announced as Lupe Velez, Ruth Chatterton, Lew Ayres, Mary Pickford, Joel MacCrea, Robert Armstrong, Mae Clark, Jimmy Durante, Lucille Gleason, Corey Ford, Gary Cooper, Lee Tracy, Countess Frasso, Lola Lane, Robert Bennsley, Edward Everett Horton, Adela Rogers St. John.

Ruth Chatterton

Boston's Lew Conrad certainly turned in a tip-top coast to coast orchestra effort with his "Musketeers" during the "Magic Carpet" hour, Tuesday night (WEEI) between 10 and 11 p. m. Lew and his lads are playing atop New York's Hotel Pennsylvania, making ready for their return to Hotel Shatuck dine and dance duty here on Oct. 7.

Twenty-two games of football are set by Yankee Network hosues as a tentative gridiron program this fall. First of these is slated Saturday afternoon next, when Holy Cross plays New River State College at Worcester. Ralph Gilbert, who won himself no little praise describing games hereabouts last year, again appears before the microphone.

YANKEE NETWORK NOTES

There's some new faces moving in and around Hotel Buckminster studios these days. Said faces reflect executive demeanor. Big boss in charge of operations and named C. G. Jones is preparing to move his present offices to another section of town, announcement coming once more the rumor about new WAAB management goes the rounds there.

* * *

Meanwhile, congratulate that some Mr. Kelly for planning of placing the contralto voice of songstress Ruth Chilton in a new setting he has titled and started next Tuesday evening over WNAC.

LOCAL LATHER

Arthur Martel, organist at the 1st Theater, takes to WBZ waves in a new regular half hour offering, starting Sunday (12:15 to 12:45), during which he will feature "ootlight favorites. Adrian O'Brien has his tenor tones all set to resume weekly sponsored airing (WEEI) come October 5th, a Wednesday night . . . Your Boston American Globe Trotter record scoops again yesterday morning (WAAB) with first news reports on the air about Hub political skirmishes and complete results. . . . Commencing next Monday night, the popular Dance Club gets started forth at 8:15 instead of 8 o'clock (WAAB), as heard the past year or more . . . Sunny Skies (WNAC) to put some unusual plans he won't tell about. Alert "eolyum" spies are keyholing on him this very minute, if he did but know it . . . Lyon Fontanne and Alfred Lunt, stars of the stage show "Reunion in Venice," current in town, declined delightfully when requested to go on the air by Yankee Network folks . . . Ted Roy is a strong candidate to wield the willow wand over Jo Solomon's musickers when WNAC airs opening night festivities at Cocoanut Grove on Tuesday night, October 4th.

On the Air

The theory has been promulgated that since a certain local station pulled in the great majority of the dials, the politicians have concentrated their campaign talks on that station . . . Which makes it certain that's one time the great majority of the dials were not pulled to that station.

The other eve, a radio master of ceremonies referred to a vocal quartet as "comedians." Listening there in the m. of c. had suddenly been parted from his mentality . . . But when the quartet began singing, he understood the "comedian" reference.

A Seth Parker b'cast had just concluded. A sweet young thing approached Seth, in real life Phil Lord, and asked blushingly, "Will you marry me?"

Lord turned red, white and blue by degrees. Then he said, "I'll have to take it up with my wife and children."

It was the sweet young thing's turn to turn the colors of the flag. Finally she managed to say that she thought Lord was a minister and she wanted him to tie the knot that sometimes binds eternally.

Some one writes in to ask how to get to Tin Pan Alley. Directions: Take the road opposite Melody Lane and cut through Mimic st., up Blatant ave., and you're there.

A puffed-up actor was chatting with Jay Flippen. "By popular demand I'm to play 'ustralia," he said. "I'm sorry to hear that," replied Jay. "Why?" asked the chesty thesp. "Well, in Australia they use ostrich eggs that are six inches in diameter."

Roosevelt's Rail Plan Stamps Him as Fit to Lead Way to Revival

At this juncture, when competence in dealing with fundamental economic questions is perhaps a principal test of fitness for the presidency, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, in his Salt Lake City, Utah, address on railroad rehabilitation, demonstrated high qualities of mind and purpose.

Instead of relying solely on the current method of treating symptoms, Mr. Roosevelt would supplement loans of public funds to the railroads with a six-point plan for getting the carriers into a state where they will no longer need such doles.

Mr. Roosevelt perceives the asininity of making federal loans to individual railroad corporations to keep them out of bankruptcy, while at the same time stubbornly adhering to obsolete methods of operation, financing, and public regulation which have been forcing such systems toward bankruptcy.

The Democratic standard bearer, referring to the policy of bringing financial succor to the railroads, said with the utmost candor:

"If elected, I shall continue the policy of trying to prevent receiverships. But I do not believe that is more than a stopgap. Lending money is all right if—and only if—you put your borrower in a position so that he can pay you back.

"The criticism is, I think, well founded that the government did not follow through with a well-considered program of putting the railroads back on their feet. . . . In its railroad relief, as elsewhere, the Republican Administration has lent money, not in accordance with a plan for relieving fundamental difficulties, but only with the hope that within a year or so the depression would end—a policy I have criticized elsewhere and shall continue to criticize."

In setting forth his constructive plan, Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that the country had emerged from the era in which "railroads, controlled by men who unfortunately did not recognize the large public interest at stake, were regarded by the public as an octopus, crushing out their life and sapping their substance."

Mr. Roosevelt's specific reforms would end the stupid contradiction inherent in the present system in which punitive measures are continued while the public pays the bill. Since rates are based on a fair return on the property value of the carriers, it is of course to the public interest to enable the railroads TO EARN SUCH A RETURN ON THE BASIS OF THE LOWEST POSSIBLE RATES CONSISTENT WITH EFFICIENT PUBLIC SERVICE.

This involves a willingness to permit executives to make consolidations, and to take other managerial steps which will eliminate costly economic waste.

Striking a balance between setting the railroads free for fully efficient operations, on the one hand, while safeguarding the interests of passengers, shippers, investors and labor, on the other, Governor Roosevelt urged that the federal government announce that it stand behind the solvency of the railroads for a specified period, during which they can reorganize; that the laws concerning receiverships and readjustments be revised; federal regulation of competing motor transportation; elimination of non-paying mileage which is shown to be unnecessary; speed up consolidations; and finally regulation by the Interstate Commerce Commission of railroad holding companies.

In his Salt Lake City address, Mr. Roosevelt has shown anew that it is safe for the country to turn over the direction of its affairs to the Democratic party, which, under its present leadership, is fully capable of dealing CONSTRUCTIVELY AND HELPFULLY with the tangled economic problems of the period.

By showing a disposition to remove the causes of impoverishment, as demonstrated in his Topeka speech on his desire to rehabilitate farm purchasing power, Mr. Roosevelt has stamped himself as the REAL HOPE OF THE COUNTRY FOR A RETURN OF BALANCED PROSPERITY which in due course will reach ALL CLASSES of the community.

Bus Line Needed

Authority to establish a five-cent fare bus line between Park Square and the retail district of Boston is being sought from the Boston City Council by the Boston Elevated at the request of the Retail Trade Board.

The request ought to be granted by the Council wholeheartedly and without delay.

We are all anxious to see the retail stores and other branches of trade increase their business at this period.

We are all anxious to see the Boston Elevated improve its income through the creation of a profitable line because the Elevated is now operated by the public, who enjoy the profits of its profitable operation and who bear the burdens of its deficits.

Above all, we are anxious that the convenience of the people of Boston and its visitors shall be facilitated by every improvement of transportation facilities that can be afforded them.

That there is need for such a convenient cross-town line can not be disputed. The Jitney Committee of the City Council know this as well as anybody and they should be eager to serve the public of Boston by granting this petition ungrudgingly and without delay.

Crossing the Atlantic

Strolling on Deck

AT SEA, Sept. 22—The ship slogs along in a vastness of blinking brilliance. Breakfasting betimes, I pilfered a red rose from the table, bedecked my lapel and began a circle of the deck, jauntily. But my bouyancy was short lived as a wave's break. A smartie, passing, cried: "Ah, Young Man of Manhattan."

Catastrophies are born of inconsequentials. Two ship acquaintances are berth-bound today. One was in high spirits until, on a clean sweep of scrubbed deck, he saw a dottle of tobacco from an emptied pipe. The other, at dinner, was served that atrocious delicacy, cock's combs in jelly.

Both, untrussed, lay in wan languor, eyes bright but curiously empty. I exhausted my sick-bed supply of jocoseria but it seemed only to annoy. So I left them to their grouches—and perhaps tastes—of dark brindle. Incidentally, a school teacher on board keeps her mind off mal de mer by conjugating "to live."

Harry Silvey seems to have abandoned vagrant armours of a six-day crossing and has consecrated his life to acquiring a Nubian coating on the sun deck. With his snow crown, he already suggests a white-turbaned Moroccan potentate. I shall introduce him in Paris as Agha Sil Vey.

I've fallen in love with a 14-months-old innocent, with questioning brown eyes and hair of sparkling golden. Her nurse in our corridor is teaching her to walk in leather harness. She wobbles into grinning squats. My wife said, it recalled someone's long ago Saturday night walk. But didn't say whose!

* * *

Kenneth C. Collins, likely the most highly paid advertising man in the world, is a passenger. We have mutual friends but never met until tea roundup in Jean Tillier's suite—and is it a palazza!—today. Collins is youngish, alert and shining with sophistication. He is one of those astonishing successes America so frequently spawns. Broke, jobless and pretty much a failure, he was selected by the head of a department store for an executive post. Like many others, given The Big Chance, he proved a whirlwind. And his hat fits him still.

An ocean trip gives a man and wife a chance to talk things over in a way so often difficult in New York's violent jangle. It is surprising how many sentimentalities the hurly-burly crowds out. Astern tonight in the fuscous twilight, we watched the huge ship cutting its path of chopped phosphorescence. Gripped by so lovely a vision, after a long silence, I ventured: "We've been unusually lucky and rather happy, don't you think?" She touched my hand ever so lightly. It somehow conveyed enormous meaning. After all, is there anything in the wide world so startlingly eloquent as silence.

Pinkcheeked Dudley Field Malone is nowhere on the ship. In some 20 crossings I never miss him one way or the other. I'll likely pick him up, along with Gilbert Miller and the usual quota of Vanderbilts, returning.

* * *

Only one passenger is going in for free-hand Spencerian drinking. He is reputedly a rubber plantation owner—broad shouldered, suspicious eyed, glum. His tipple is brandy in wide flanged glasses and from early until late he sits at a remote table, rolling, inhaling and sipping, talking to no one. Last evening, he was called by a courier on some mission. Returning, he stood swaying in the doorway until a quick lurch sent him bobbling to his corner. "Our big rubber man is bouncing," observed Mrs. Reginald Wright Kauffman, who up to that time had said very little.

For a trifling purchase in the ship shop I tendered a half dollar. The cashier, shaking his head, said: I can't take that sir." I suggested acridly he might then give it to the company. A man, standing by, said he was an American banker and would like to examine the coin. I snatched it quicker than that and ran like everything.

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Can Democracy Succeed?

CAN A DEMOCRACY SUCCEED?

That's a queer question to ask in America, isn't it? For America is theoretically a democracy—a "government by the people, for the people."

Yet, has democracy ever been successful in America?

Our fathers thought it was. They met together as brothers, poor men and rich men alike. They fought and worked and dreamed together, and out of their struggles and dreams, they made the Constitution, which they believed would keep America a democracy forever.

But is America a Democracy today? Most of us think it is. But our War Department says flatly that democracy won't work; never has worked, and there's no use in trying to make it work.

Elsie Robinson

In General Staff's training manual No. 2000-25, on "Citizenship," which every soldier must study, the following statements occur:

"DEMOCRACY RESULTS IN MOBOCRACY, DEMAGOGISM, LICENSE, AGITATION, DISCONTENT, ANARCHY."

That is what the American War Department believes about democracy. That is what it teaches American soldiers.

That is why we are using State Militias and Federal force instead of arbitration in dealing with striking miners, male and female mill hands, picketing farmers, lobbying veterans who are demanding jobs, higher wages, better living conditions.

That is also why a few powerful citizens are making the plans and running the works and manipulating the money of America, while the rest of us just tag along.

Now, of course, this isn't a democratic way of handling things. It is anything but a democratic way. It is the way dictators and kings handle things. But the few powerful citizens should not be blamed because of that.

If they are running things to suit themselves, it is because we're letting them.

If they have changed America from a democracy into a what-have-you, it is because you and I and the rest of the voters don't really want a democracy any more. Or — we?

What sort of a government do you really want?

What sort of a government do you really think you have?

Do you realize how little you really do know about your government? Do you think you should know more about your government?

Or do you agree with the War Department that it is impossible to have a government "for the people by the people."

Do you think we should frankly admit that democracy has failed in America? Do you think we should openly agree to let a few powerful citizens run things for the rest of us—and honestly confess that a monarchy is better for America than a democracy?

Or do you still believe in our father's brave dream of democracy? Do you still believe that every American citizen should have a direct "say" in his own government, and that the needs of the poor and the stupid are as important as the needs of the rich and the wise, and their rights as sacred?

Ask yourself these questions. Answer them. They are terrific questions.

America is at the cross-roads. The future of America and the destiny of the generations yet to be born depends on the answers you will make to these questions this year.

Circus Memories

Oh, never comes the circus with its wonders into town
But I recall a little boy who longed to be a clown,
And high above the heads of all an acrobat I see
That little lad of long ago was hopeful he would be.

No care had he for words that rhyme. A more entrancing thing
Was jumping on and off a horse within a sawdust ring.
And all the verses ever penned he'd gladly trade back then
To be the spangled hero in the roaring lions' den.

There was a riding lady in a fluffy skirt of pink
But destiny or fortune or the fates (or was it dad?)
Contrived to change the life-work of this circus dreaming lad.

He would not now retrace his steps. Through eyes now growing dim
He sees an acrobat's career would not have done for him.
But still when bands are playing and the circus barkers shout

Why I Am a Better Republican Than President Hoover

By Hon. George W. Norris

U. S. Senator from Nebraska

(Copyright, 1932, Liberty Publishing Corporation.)

(Reprinted in part from the September 24, 1932, issue of Liberty by permission of the editors.)

I support Roosevelt in 1932. I supported Smith in 1928.

If that be treason, make the most of it.

I am a Republican legally because my constituents, whose word is final, have elected me on the Republican ticket. But, aside from such technicalities, I am a BETTER REPUBLICAN THAN HERBERT HOOVER OR CALVIN COOLIDGE, if fidelity to fundamental principles and basic ideals counts for more than stanch adherence to the shibboleth of regularity.

If adherence to a party platform under all circumstances constitutes the criterion of loyalty in a public servant, let us abolish the eagle and institute the parrot as our national emblem.

We have been governed too long by parrots in politics and by yesmen in business.

The vast extent of our territory and the conditions of modern life may make it necessary to mechanize American civilization. But it is not necessary to mechanize our conscience. Let us be men, not robots. . . .

The Republican Convention in 1932 was dominated by big business. The Democratic Convention escaped by a miracle. But we cannot count upon a miracle in every convention. . . .

The control of our government by special interests destroys Lincoln's dictum of government "of the people, by the people, for the people." If Lincoln were in politics today he would probably be denounced as a Bolshevist for uttering these memorable words, which express with sublime simplicity the basic principle of Republican government—the principle for which Governor Roosevelt stands.

IF LINCOLN WERE ALIVE TODAY HE WOULD SUPPORT GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT.

Big business and Mr. Hoover would agree with Lincoln in the first of his three propositions. But they would disagree with him on the others. They would say with Lincoln "the government of the people." But at that point they would vary the text. Big business wants a government of the people by big business, for big business.

And because I cannot subscribe to this doctrine I cannot support Herbert Hoover.

I support Franklin D. Roosevelt on a wet platform, in spite of the fact that my personal predilections are dry. I am seventy-one years of age. But I am not too old to learn, nor to admit an error. I cannot conceal from myself the sad fact that the noble experiment has ceased to be either noble or an experiment. We need no further trial to convince us that PROHIBITION HAS FAILED.

Other things being equal, I might have supported Herbert Hoover on a dry platform. I might have supported him on a wet platform. But I could not support him on the dubious plank which, with the aid of Federal officeholders and the delegates from the rotten boroughs of Republicanism, he forced upon a hamstring convention.

Mr. Hoover is the JANUS OF POLITICS. One face beams upon the drys, another smiles equivocally upon the wets. He has learned the art of carrying water on both shoulders. At present he carries upon one shoulder a pitcher of water, while upon the other he balances a jug painted to resemble a pitcher of beer.

I do not like Mr. Hoover's attitude on the subject of beer. I relish even less his attitude on water and water power. Mr. Hoover would be perfectly willing to dispense beer to the people if he could turn over the water in the land to the special interests.

Mr. Hoover is ALWAYS TWO-FACED, ALWAYS EQUIVOCAL, EXCEPT WHEN HE CHAMPIONS BIG BUSINESS.

With a singleness of purpose worthy of a better cause he plays the devoted henchman of high finance. One eye in each of his faces, no matter what his lips may say, always winks understandingly at the power trust and at Wall Street.

Lincoln emancipated the black slaves. Hoover refuses to take a single step to free the white-collar slave, the wage slave, and the agricultural slave. . . .

By enslaving electricity we can emancipate labor from economic slavery. But if this necessity of human life, which should redeem us from drudgery, is owned and controlled by monopoly, slavery continues. Mr. Hoover and his adherents have done everything in their power to withhold the benefits of our national resources from the people.

Roosevelt has fought the power trust at every step. He has fought the power trust and has aided the farm. Hoover has done nothing to lighten the farmers' load. I parted company with Herbert Hoover four years ago because of his failure to recognize that the increasing demoralization of agriculture was a menace threatening not merely the farmer in his humble hut, but the banker sitting astride the world in the topless towers of the financial districts.

Mr. Hoover could see nothing except our artificial prosperity, inflated like a balloon by higher power salesmen, ranging from Presidents of the United States to Wall Street touts. . . .

Neglected by Mr. Hoover and his predecessors, the consuming power of the farmer languished until it died. Today our farmers are strangled by their debts. It is doubtful whether many can survive, even if we should be as kind to them as we have been to our European debtors and grant them a well-deserved moratorium. . . .

As the avalanche of distress swept over the farms, until misery had spread from coast to coast, the politicians at last conceded that the problem existed. Then came Mr. Hoover.

He opposed every remedy for the relief of agriculture as a member of the Cabinet. But after he was stung by the Presidential bee he promised in his campaign speeches to put the farmer on an equality with the manufacturer.

Although his promises were as vague and indefinite as his mentality, the people accepted his word. Millions of our people were persuaded that Herbert Hoover had some way of saving the situation. I did not share this fond belief. But I warned in vain. The country, including the farmers, followed the Hoover band wagon.

Alas, the "two chickens in every pot" and the banishment of idleness and unhappiness from our country, which he promised in his oratory, were fairy tales, now known as such, even to children.
